REGIONAL ELIMINATION GAMES START TONIGHT

Gov. Olson Victorious in Third Contest With Republican Controlled Legislature

CONFIRMATION OF F. A. DUXBURY IS REFUSED BY SENATE

LATTER NAMED MEMBER STATE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION BY CHRISTIANSON

OLSON'S OTHER TRIUMPHS WERE REGARDING HOLMBERG AND PEYTON

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(U.P.)—Floyd B. Olson, Minnesota's farmer-labor governor, today emerged victorious in his third contest with a republican controlled legislature.

The vote of 40 to 25 last night to refuse confirmation of F. A. Duxbury as a member of the state industrial commission was a greater credit for the governor because he had waged no vigorous fight for his opinions. It was known, however, that he was inclined to want another appointee than the one named by former Governor Theodore Christianson during his final days in office.

Olson's other triumphs were the refusal of the senate to confirm the appointment of N. J. Holmberg as commissioner of agriculture and the confirmation of John N. Peyton, Duluth, as state banking commissioner.

The senate voted to accept a minority report of the workmen's compensation committee which listed charges of prejudice against labor on Duxbury's part. Labor organizations had opposed the reappointment of Duxbury.

Senator Gerald Mullin, Minneapolis, originally protested the confirmation of Duxbury and lead the fight all the way through to prevent his reappointment.

A. J. Rockne, Zumbrota, and W. B. Anderson, Minneapolis, both childhood friends of Duxbury, made vigorous speeches in behalf of the reappointment confirmation.

Senator George H. Sullivan, Stillwater, charged that "a powerful medical lobby and hidden unseen influences" were opposing the confirmation of the industrial commissioner.

Meanwhile the house passed by a vote of 78 to 49 the five-day wedding delay bill. The measure now goes to the senate for consideration. Under its provision, marriages would be delayed five days from the time licenses were issued.

An amendment narrowing the scope of the bill only to persons under 21 years of age was defeated. The amendment was offered by Representative John Coughlin of Faribault.

At a hearing of the house and senate highway committees last night, Charles M. Babcock, state highway commissioner, asked for passage of the proposed $15,400,000 highway bond issue.

Babcock said the road works would offer jobs to a large number of men throughout the state. George Schwartou, representative of the Goodhue County Farm Bureau, said he had been unable to find unemployment and that he had been unable to get men to fill the jobs. Representative Frank Starkey, St. Paul, replied that Schwartau would see many men out of work in the Twin Cities if he acquainted himself with the situation.

Senator Claude H. Mackenzie, republican national committeeman, held a "reapportionment dinner" last night for third district legislators. The purpose of the meeting, it was said, was to discuss various proposals for reapportionment and to decide which would best serve the interests of the counties in that district.

Congressman August H. Andresen, Red Wing, attended the meeting along with the legislators.

Northern States Power Company to Spend 10 Million in Construction

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(U.P.)—The Northern States Power Company will spend more than $10,000,000 in construction work this year, Jalford Erickson, vice president of Byllesby Engineering & Management Corporation, announced today.

Erickson said that appropriations for 10 companies of the Standard Gas & Electric Company, with which the Northern States is affiliated, total $45,000,000.

RELATIVES RESTRAINED FROM KILLING HIM

Minneapolis, Minn., March 19—(U.P.)—Samsen Medal was granted a temporary injunction restraining relatives from attempting to kill him by Judge W. C. Leary today in district court.

Medal charged that his children poured hot water on him, beat him and threw chairs at him. He came to Minneapolis recently from Europe.

WHOLESALE BREAD PRICES REDUCED IN TWIN CITIES

Minneapolis, March 19.—(U.P.)—Wholesale bread prices were reduced an average of 2 cents a loaf today in Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Bakers said the reductions resulted from a desire to cooperate with the Federal Farm board in its campaign to increase consumption of wheat products.

The wholesale price of unwrapped bread was reduced from 5½ to 4 cents a loaf, wrapped from 8 to 6½ cents and "best bread" from 12 to 10 cents.

MAYOR WALKER REFUSES COMMENT ON CHARGES FILED

NEW YORK CHIEF EXECUTIVE VACATIONING IN PALM SPRINGS, CALIF

GOVERNOR ROOSEVELT ACTING IN STRICTLY JUDICIAL CAPACITY IN MATTER

New York, March 19.—(U.P.)—For the first time in Mayor James J. Walker's two terms in city hall there was an abrupt ending today of the "wisecracks" and ready wit which made him famous.

Immediately after publication yesterday by Governor Roosevelt of the six general and ten specific accusations of incompetence, laxity and misfeasance in office brought against the mayor by the city affairs committee, Tammany hall leaders put through a telephone call to Walker, who is vacationing in Palm Springs, Calif.

They told him, according to reports, that the time for wisecracking was past. A summary of the charges was read to him over the telephone, and he was urged to maintain complete silence concerning them.

Evidence that the mayor intended to follow their advice was given later in the day, when he refused to say anything about the charges to newspapermen who called him from New York.

Governor Roosevelt, whose decision on the charges will determine whether or not an investigation will be made into Walker's official acts, emphasized last night that he was acting in a strictly judicial capacity in the matter. He refused to make any comment preceding announcement of his decision, and warned against inquiries or speculation.

Tammany Hall was frankly worried over what the governor would do in the matter, and by no means certain that the charges would be ignored. Some members who refused to be quoted remarked that it "sounded like the last political campaign all over again."

There are four possible courses open to Governor Roosevelt. (1) He can refuse to act on the charges. (2) He can call the mayor "on the carpet" as soon as the latter returns from California, reprimand him, and threaten to remove him unless he remedies conditions. (3) He can present the charges to the legislature with the advice that although the charges do not justify removal proceedings, they are grounds for investigation by a legislative commission. (4) He can await the adjournment of the legislature, and, if it adjourns without ordering an investigation, appoint a commissioner to investigate the charges against the mayor.

The governor may also suspend the mayor for 30 days pending investigation of the charges.

PLAN CLOSER WORKING PACT

LABOR CABINET AND LIBERAL PARTY OF ENGLAND GROWING CORDIAL

London, March 19.—(U.P.)—Plans for a closer working agreement between the labor government and the liberal party of David Lloyd George were indicated today as an outcome of the liberal leader's demands that his party unite its ranks.

The success of Lloyd George in reasserting his leadership of the liberals remained in doubt, however, in view of the fact that the meeting of the parliamentary members of the party last night resulted in postponement.

It was understood that a resolution which will "give the party an opportunity to make a decision of first class importance to its future" will be presented at the next meeting and upon that decision will depend not only the fate of the liberal party, but also the future of the government of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald.

Lloyd George was said to be planning a close working agreement with the laborites under which the government—which has been threatened repeatedly in recent weeks—would remain in power for another 18 months. The liberals, who hold the "balance of power" in parliament would be able to keep the government in office if Lloyd George proves his ability to reunite the party.

CARRYING FOOD, MEDICAL SUPPLIES TO THE SURVIVORS

7 RESCUE SHIPS NOW AT SCENE OF VIKING DISASTER OFF NEWFOUNDLAND COAST

NATIVES AS WELL AS WOUNDED SEAMEN FACE THREAT OF STARVATION

St. Johns, Newfoundland, March 19.—The crews of seven rescue ships at the scene of the Viking disaster off the northern coast of Newfoundland united today in a valiant effort to carry food and medical supplies to survivors on Horse Island, "regardless of difficulties."

Both rescuers and survivors defied the increasing dangers of a snowstorm and a strong wind which blew cold from the northeast, in an effort to get food to the island where the natives as well as the wounded and exhausted seamen from the Viking were facing the threat of starvation.

The storm began at midnight and forced the rescue ships to speed their efforts to cross four miles of shifting ice, lest the task of reaching the island be greatly increased within a few hours. The ships, which previously had conducted a thorough search on the ice floes for survivors of the blast and fire which wrecked the 50-year-old sealing vessel, failed in all efforts to reach the island yesterday.

Meanwhile, messages from Horse Island said food was being exhausted rapidly and that the wounded were in urgent need of medical attention which the ships — only four miles away — could supply if contact could be made.

"It is impossible to penetrate the heavy ice pack," the master of the Ungava, Captain Winsor, radioed. "A heavy swell makes walking dangerous. But we are arranging for the combined crews to carry food over the ice. Doctors will accompany them. Meanwhile, men from the shore who are able to walk will start across the ice for the ships. Our men will reach the island regardless of difficulties."

All of the rescue ships reported that they had covered the entire area of the explosion and a surrounding region extending 20 miles from the point where wreckage of the Viking was found. They picked up two bodies, but did not find any other victims, dead or alive, after the first few hours in which several small groups reached safety on the island or were picked up.

The messages said the captains of the ships agreed that there were no survivors left on the ice and that it was doubtful that there were any bodies on the ice, which was being carried out to sea and breaking up.

The number of missing continued uncertain, but was upwards of 20, inasmuch as re-checks of the crew of the Viking yesterday showed that there may have been 156 men on board. There were 127 known safe.

Conditions were described as pitiful at Horse Island, where news was still being sent out by Otis Bartlett, the youthful radio operator. Bartlett hour after hour without sleep until the government finally ordered him to suspend the transmission of messages until he could get some rest.

FOUR U. S. NAVY DESTROYERS SEARCH FOR WM. G. BROPHY

Manila, P. I., March 19.—(U.P.)—Four United States navy destroyers began a search today for William G. Brophy, Los Angeles aviator who was believed to have been forced down in an isolated section of Luzon while flying from Hong Kong to Manila.

Brophy left Macao, Hong Kong, at 8:50 A. M. today with fuel estimated sufficient to carry him until 6:50 P. M. A ship reported sighting his plane 15 miles out of Macao but since then no word has been received. Naval authorities ordered the destroyers Paul Jones, John D. Ford, Truxton and To Quarters to start the search around the island of Luzon, while the Philippines Broadcasting Company issued a request for information as to Brophy's whereabouts.

Brophy left Shanghai a month ago on a proposed non-stop flight to Manila but was repeatedly forced down by engine trouble.

OMINOUS CALM OVER RIOT TORN JOLIET PRISON

OVER 600 ARMED GUARDS PATROL MODEL PENITENTIARY AT STATEVILLE

EVERY PRISONER LOCKED IN HIS CELL IN CIRCULAR, MODEL CELLHOUSES

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Joliet, Ill., March 19.—An ominous silence hung today over the riot torn model prison at Stateville, while more than 600 armed guards patrolled the walls and trusties fought the last of seven costly fires which the prisoners themselves had started.

Every prisoner was locked in his cell in the circular, model cell houses, and orders from Warden Henry C. Hill were that they be kept there, deprived of all privileges, isolated completely from the outside world, and shorn of all the merits they had won since 1905.

Several troops of national guardsmen, city, state and county police were among the men who patrolled the prison, inside and out, to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's riot which resulted in serious wounding of three prisoners and destruction of almost $500,000 worth of state property.

One of the wounded prisoners, Ray Arney, died today in the Stateville hospital. He was shot in the stomach at the height of the rioting yesterday when guards rushed the dining hall. Arney was from Chicago and serving a term for robbery.

Both prisons were quiet at dawn but the 600 guards remained on duty.

Only charred ruins remained of six of the seven buildings. The seventh, the machine shop, still blazed and trusties aided firemen in preventing the flames from spreading.

About 200 prisoners accused of inciting and starting the riot while in the mess hall were in solitary confinement. An unnamed Mexican prisoner who was accused of starting the fires with gasoline drained from prison trucks also was in solitary. Warden Hill said he would be indicted for arson.

The rioting started by signal among about 250 convicts in the mess hall. Two guards inside the hall were beaten and thrown out as the mutiny spread.

The convicts rushed into the open and the unnamed Mexican began his rounds of the buildings. He had a handkerchief over his face. He fired building after building as he ran. Others of the rioting convicts aided him.

Soon the whole prison seemed in flames, which roared to a height of 200 feet and cast a dense cloud of smoke over the countryside.

Many prisoners who did not wish to join in the riot raced immediately to their cells. Among them were Nathan Leopold and Martin Durkin. The original rioters, joined by others, continued the mutiny for two hours while Joliet firemen waited outside the gates, unable to enter to fight the fires.

Upon entering the prison yard, Chaplain Weir was given a soap box by some of the convicts. They were quiet for a minute while he stood upon the box and pleaded that they were hurting only themselves.

"We've heard that before," a convict shouted, "we want a new parole board," and the rioting began anew, more fiercely than before.

Both Hill and Weir blamed this riot and others of the last week to overcrowding the two prisons where, Hill said, 4,702 men were confined.

SUES FOR $9,500 DAMAGES AT INDOOR GOLF COURSE PLAY

Minneapolis, March 19.—(U.P.)—E. F. Hughes, an attorney, has brought suit for $9,500 damages for injuries assertedly received during a game on the Rolling Green miniature golf course.

Hughes charged that a substance on the 14th fairway caused him to lose his balance and fall on the concrete floor.

STEAMSHIP HERA WRECKED AND 8 PERSONS LOST

STEAMER CRASHES ON ROCKS OFF HAMMERFEST, NORWAY, AT MIDNIGHT

MISSING INCLUDE AN 8-YEAR-OLD GIRL AND FOUR STEWARDESSES

Oslo, Norway, March 19. — (U.P.) — Eight persons were known dead today in the wreck of the steamship Hera, which crashed on the rocks off Hammerfest at midnight Wednesday in a snow storm. The missing included an eight-year-old girl and four stewardesses.

At least 56 persons fought their way to safety, most of them swimming to shore despite the freezing water.

The Hera, a Norwegian ship of 1080 tons, was going at full speed when it struck the rocks.

The fore part of the vessel was rammed high on a rocky cliff and the stern dipped under the water. The crew and passengers began a long and dramatic struggle to reach safety on the shore, which was only a short distance away but was separated from the ship by a cold and heavy running sea.

A breeches buoy was rigged after many attempts and removal of the passengers began. Six persons fell from the buoy and were drowned. Another passenger died of exhaustion.

The survivors were still six miles from any habitation and all of them were suffering from cold and the strain of the rescue. They walked to Havoysund, where 28 passengers and 34 seamen, arrived.

London, March 19. — The steamer Chang-Kiang struck the rocks off Heihan Islands, near Haimen, on Monday and sank with a loss of 14 lives, Lloyd's was advised from Shanghai.

The vessel was a total loss.

The French gunboat Harne was standing by, taking the crew and passengers on board.

BALCHEN FLIGHT TO HORSE ISLAND MEETS DELAY

SEEKS TO AID STARVING SURVIVORS OF THE SEALER VIKING

FUEL CAPACITY OF BALCHEN'S AMPHIPIAN PLANE MUST BE INCREASED

By HENRY MINOTT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, March 19.—Bernt Balchen's projected flight to Horse Island, Newfoundland, to aid the starving survivors of the sealer Viking disaster was delayed temporarily today.

After the noted pilot's arrival this morning, he announced he would not be able to take off in the huge two-motored Sikorsky amphibian which awaited him here until its fuel capacity had been greatly increased.

At 7:09 A. M. Pilot R. J. Bardin took off from Boston airport in a Fairchild plane, bound at top speed for Farmingdale, L. I., to obtain additional fuel tanks for the amphibian. He expected to be back here within four hours. Additional tanks will increase the plane's capacity to 400 gallons.

Balchen, head of Commander Richard E. Byrd's air forces at the south pole and co-pilot on the explorer's flight across the Atlantic in 1928, had two other pilots with him ready for the dangerous trip northward to Newfoundland.

They are F. Merion Cooper, war flier and close friend of Varick Frissell, New York explorer who has been missing since the sealing ship exploded and burned Sunday, and Major Roy P. Gates, another war flier and an experienced parachute jumper.

The expedition was ordered last night by Seth Low, head of Roosevelt Field, at the urgent request of Dr. Lewis F. Frissell, father of the explorer.

STOCKS FIRM UP FRACTIONALLY

NUMEROUS ISSUES CLOSING ON NEW HIGHS YESTERDAY, UP FURTHER TODAY

By ELMER C. WALZER
(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, March 19.—Stocks firmed up fractionally at the opening of the stock exchange today in active turnover.

Numerous issues which closed on new highs for the year yesterday were pushed to further records for 1931. These included Gold Dust at 41 3-8 up ½ on 4,000 shares; United Cigar Stores at 6 5 8 up 1-8; Schulte 10 1-4 up 1-4; Several 10 3-8 up 1-4; Tobacco Products 3 1-4 up 1-8; Kelvinator 15 3-8 up 1-8 and Lorillard 20 up 1-4 on 5,000 shares.

U. S. Steel opened at 148 up 1-4, while Union Carbide was at 67 7-8 up 1 5-8, General Electric 52 3-8 up 3-8; Vanadium 69 3-4 up 1-8 and A. M. Byers 59 3-4 up 1 3-8.

CLASS OF STATE, MOORHEAD, MEETS BRAINERD IN FIRST

GLENWOOD BATTLES THE DARK HORSE ENTRY, CAMPBELL, IN SECOND ON CARD

BRAINERD GIVEN EVEN CHANCE IF BOYS PLAY HEADS-UP BALL; SPUDS FAVORED

Brainerd's "million dollar defense" will go into action tonight against the strongest competition in the state, Moorhead, winners of seven consecutive regional titles and victors of 60 of the last 62 games.

Campbell and Glenwood will meet in the second game of the regional tournament to pick the other finalist to decide championship honors Friday evening.

All teams were primed for the occasion today and all had strong hopes of surviving.

Moorhead is rated the favorite but the Brainerd hopes are given an even break to win if they continue to function 100 per cent. Each team must play heads-up ball to win.

Of the four teams in the regional, Campbell will be watched as a dark horse. Little is known of the entry. Some predict Campbell may be another Gaylord.

Tonight's battles will be interesting to watch from the standpoint of defense play. Brainerd, Moorhead and Glenwood are each known to have the same type of defense.

Brainerd is expected to force the play from the opening whistle. As a result the game may establish a terrific pace from the start, continuing through to the final gun.

The final lap of the state high school basketball race also starts tonight in the regional tournament at Thief River Falls, to decide the entrant for the state championship tourney next week at the Minnesota field house.

Champions will be decided in the two remaining regions in tournaments starting tomorrow, which will complete the entry list of eight teams for the state meet. Here is the line-up as it stood today:

Champions already selected—
Region 1—Rochester.
Region 3—Glencoe.
Region 5—Buffalo.
Region 7—Chisholm.

Tournaments scheduled for this week-end—
Region 6, Brainerd (starting tonight)—
Brainerd vs. Moorhead, 8 P. M.
Campbell vs. Glenwood, 9:15 P. M.
Region 8 at Thief River Falls (starting tonight)—
Mahnomen vs. Warren.
Bemidji vs. Hallock.
Region 4 at South St. Paul (starting Friday)—
Northfield vs. New Prague.
Stillwater vs. St. Paul Central.
Region 2 at Mankato (starting Friday)—
Mankato vs. Luverne.
Fairmont vs. Mountain Lake.

Bemidji and Warren are favorites in the Thief River Falls tournament. None of the teams entered in the eighth region tournament except Bemidji ever has been entered in the state tournament.

All arrangements for the games that hold state-wide interest were complete at the Brainerd high school today.

The fever for basketball will continue into the games tonight with the result that crowds will fill the gymnasium to capacity.

As against Moorhead's three year enviable record, Brainerd won 22 out of 25 games this season.

Campbell came to town first, arriving last evening. It is the first regional tournament the town has entered and the 324 people back home are praying and shouting for their boys to win.

The Campbell boys won their district games at Morris over opposition from Fergus Falls, Morris, Browns Valley and Elbow Lake. The team has won 27 out of 28 games this season and has won 62 out of 68 in the last three years.

Coach John Keohane will pin his hopes on the following against Glenwood: Mellon, 26, Steele, 25, forwards; A. Hemmerling, 27, center; Hage, 22, Johnson, 23, guards; subs, H. Hemmerling, 25, forward; Grand, 8, center; Bob Glover, 7, guard.

Edward C. Slettedahl, school superintendent at Campbell, is the faculty representative at the tournament.

Glenn Hanna, coach of the Moorhead team, brought his team of young giants into town at 3 P. M. today and stated to The Dispatch he anticipated the toughest regional tournament he had ever entered.

The coach gave his team a 50-50 chance to win.

"What do you dope your chances?" he was asked.

"It should be an even break," Mr. Hanna said.

The team has but one of its regulars from last year's team back, Marquardt, 6 feet three inch center. The others wore uniforms last year and were almost the equal of the first string, however, and have since im-

All of the rescue ships reported that they had covered the entire area of the explosion and a surrounding region extending 20 miles from the point where wreckage of the Viking was found. They picked up two bodies, but did not find any other victims, dead or alive, after the first few hours in which several small groups reached safety on the island or were picked up.

The messages said the captains of the ships agreed that there were no survivors left on the ice and that it was doubtful that there were any bodies on the ice, which was being carried out to sea and breaking up.

The number of missing continued uncertain, but was upwards of 20, inasmuch as re-checks of the crew of the Viking yesterday showed that there may have been 156 men on board. There were 127 known safe.

Conditions were described as pitiful at Horse Island, where news was still being sent out by Otis Bartlett, the youthful radio operator. Bartlett hour after hour without sleep until the government finally ordered him to suspend the transmission of messages until he could get some rest.

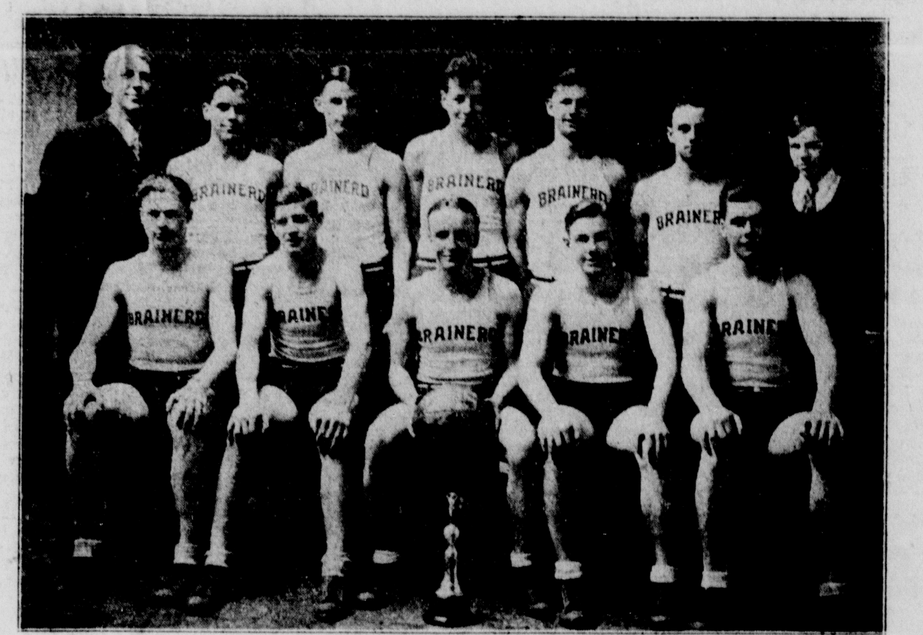

FOUR U. S. NAVY DESTROYERS SEARCH FOR WM. G. BROPHY

Manila, P. I., March 19.—(U.P.)—Four United States navy destroyers began a search today for William G. Brophy, Los Angeles aviator who was believed to have been forced down in an isolated section of Luzon while flying from Hong Kong to Manila.

Brophy left Macao, Hong Kong, at 8:50 A. M. today with fuel estimated sufficient to carry him until 6:50 P. M. A ship reported sighting his plane 15 miles out of Macao but since then no word has been received. Naval authorities ordered the destroyers Paul Jones, John D. Ford, Truxton and To Quarters to start the search around the island of Luzon, while the Philippines Broadcasting Company issued a request for information as to Brophy's whereabouts.

Brophy left Shanghai a month ago on a proposed non-stop flight to Manila but was repeatedly forced down by engine trouble.

OMINOUS CALM OVER RIOT TORN JOLIET PRISON

OVER 600 ARMED GUARDS PATROL MODEL PENITENTIARY AT STATEVILLE

EVERY PRISONER LOCKED IN HIS CELL IN CIRCULAR, MODEL CELLHOUSES

By ROBERT T. LOUGHRAN

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Joliet, Ill., March 19.—An ominous silence hung today over the riot torn model prison at Stateville, while more than 600 armed guards patrolled the walls and trusties fought the last of seven costly fires which the prisoners themselves had started.

Every prisoner was locked in his cell in the circular, model cell houses, and orders from Warden Henry C. Hill were that they be kept there, deprived of all privileges, isolated completely from the outside world, and shorn of all the merits they had won since 1905.

Several troops of national guardsmen, city, state and county police were among the men who patrolled the prison, inside and out, to prevent a recurrence of yesterday's riot which resulted in serious wounding of three prisoners and destruction of almost $500,000 worth of state property.

One of the wounded prisoners, Ray Arney, died today in the Stateville hospital. He was shot in the stomach at the height of the rioting yesterday when guards rushed the dining hall. Arney was from Chicago and serving a term for robbery.

Both prisons were quiet at dawn but the 600 guards remained on duty.

Only charred ruins remained of six of the seven buildings. The seventh, the machine shop, still blazed and trusties aided firemen in preventing the flames from spreading.

About 200 prisoners accused of inciting and starting the riot while in the mess hall were in solitary confinement. An unnamed Mexican prisoner who was accused of starting the fires with gasoline drained from prison trucks also was in solitary. Warden Hill said he would be indicted for arson.

The rioting started by signal among about 250 convicts in the mess hall. Two guards inside the hall were beaten and thrown out as the mutiny spread.

The convicts rushed into the open and the unnamed Mexican began his rounds of the buildings. He had a handkerchief over his face. He fired building after building as he ran. Others of the rioting convicts aided him.

Soon the whole prison seemed in flames, which roared to a height of 200 feet and cast a dense cloud of smoke over the countryside.

Many prisoners who did not wish to join in the riot raced immediately to their cells. Among them were Nathan Leopold and Martin Durkin. The original rioters, joined by others, continued the mutiny for two hours while Joliet firemen waited outside the gates, unable to enter to fight the fires.

Upon entering the prison yard, Chaplain Weir was given a soap box by some of the convicts. They were quiet for a minute while he stood upon the box and pleaded that they were hurting only themselves.

"We've heard that before," a convict shouted, "we want a new parole board," and the rioting began anew, more fiercely than before.

Both Hill and Weir blamed this riot and others of the last week to overcrowding the two prisons where, Hill said, 4,702 men were confined.

SUES FOR $9,500 DAMAGES AT INDOOR GOLF COURSE PLAY

Minneapolis, March 19.—(U.P.)—E. F. Hughes, an attorney, has brought suit for $9,500 damages for injuries assertedly received during a game on the Rolling Green miniature golf course.

Hughes charged that a substance on the 14th fairway caused him to lose his balance and fall on the concrete floor.

STEAMSHIP HERA WRECKED AND 8 PERSONS LOST

STEAMER CRASHES ON ROCKS OFF HAMMERFEST, NORWAY, AT MIDNIGHT

MISSING INCLUDE AN 8-YEAR-OLD GIRL AND FOUR STEWARDESSES

Oslo, Norway, March 19. — (U.P.) — Eight persons were known dead today in the wreck of the steamship Hera, which crashed on the rocks off Hammerfest at midnight Wednesday in a snow storm. The missing included an eight-year-old girl and four stewardesses.

At least 56 persons fought their way to safety, most of them swimming to shore despite the freezing water.

The Hera, a Norwegian ship of 1080 tons, was going at full speed when it struck the rocks.

The fore part of the vessel was rammed high on a rocky cliff and the stern dipped under the water. The crew and passengers began a long and dramatic struggle to reach safety on the shore, which was only a short distance away but was separated from the ship by a cold and heavy running sea.

A breeches buoy was rigged after many attempts and removal of the passengers began. Six persons fell from the buoy and were drowned. Another passenger died of exhaustion.

The survivors were still six miles from any habitation and all of them were suffering from cold and the strain of the rescue. They walked to Havoysund, where 28 passengers and 34 seamen, arrived.

London, March 19. — The steamer Chang-Kiang struck the rocks off Heihan Islands, near Haimen, on Monday and sank with a loss of 14 lives, Lloyd's was advised from Shanghai.

The vessel was a total loss.

The French gunboat Harne was standing by, taking the crew and passengers on board.

BALCHEN FLIGHT TO HORSE ISLAND MEETS DELAY

SEEKS TO AID STARVING SURVIVORS OF THE SEALER VIKING

FUEL CAPACITY OF BALCHEN'S AMPHIBIAN PLANE MUST BE INCREASED

By HENRY MINOTT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Boston, March 19—Bernt Balchen's projected flight to Horse Island, Newfoundland, to aid the starving survivors of the sealer Viking disaster was delayed temporarily today.

After the noted pilot's arrival this morning, he announced he would not be able to take off in the huge two-motored Sikorsky amphibian which awaited him here until its fuel capacity had been greatly increased.

At 7:09 A. M. Pilot R. J. Bardin took off from Boston airport in a Fairchild plane, bound at top speed for Farmingdale, L. I., to obtain additional fuel tanks for the amphibian. He expected to be back here within four hours. Additional tanks will increase the plane's capacity to 400 gallons.

Balchen, head of Commander Richard E. Byrd's air forces at the south pole and co-pilot on the explorer's flight across the Atlantic in 1928, had two other pilots with him ready for the dangerous trip northward to Newfoundland.

They are F. Merion Cooper, war flier and close friend of Varick Frissell, New York explorer who has been missing since the sealing ship exploded and burned Sunday, and Major Roy P. Gates, another war flier and an experienced parachute jumper.

The expedition was ordered last night by Seth Low, head of Roosevelt Field, at the urgent request of Dr. Lewis F. Frissell, father of the explorer.

STOCKS FIRM UP FRACTIONALLY

NUMEROUS ISSUES CLOSING ON NEW HIGHS YESTERDAY, UP FURTHER TODAY

By ELMER C. WALZER

(United Press Financial Editor)

New York, March 19.—Stocks firmed up fractionally at the opening of the stock exchange today in active turnover.

Numerous issues which closed on new highs for the year yesterday were pushed to further records for 1931. These included Gold Dust at 41 3-8 up ½ on 4,000 shares; United Cigar Stores at 6 5-8 up 1-8; Schulte 10 1-4 up 1-4; Several 10 3-8 up 1-4; Tobacco Products 3 1-4 up 1-8; Kelvinator 15 3-8 up 1-8 and Lorillard 20 up 1-4 on 5,000 shares.

U. S. Steel opened at 148 up 1-4, while Union Carbide was at 67 7-8 up 1 5-8, General Electric 52 3-8 up 3-8; Vanadium 69 3-4 up 1-8 and A. M. Byers 59 3-4 up 1 3-8.

CLASS OF STATE, MOORHEAD, MEETS BRAINERD IN FIRST

GLENWOOD BATTLES THE DARK HORSE ENTRY, CAMPBELL, IN SECOND ON CARD

BRAINERD GIVEN EVEN CHANCE IF BOYS PLAY HEADS-UP BALL; SPUDS FAVORED

Brainerd's "million dollar defense" will go into action tonight against the strongest competition in the state, Moorhead, winners of seven consecutive regional titles and victors of 60 of the last 62 games.

Campbell and Glenwood will meet in the second game of the regional tournament to pick the other finalist to decide championship honors Friday evening.

All teams were primed for the occasion today and all had strong hopes of surviving.

Moorhead is rated the favorite but the Brainerd hopes are given an even break to win if they continue to function 100 per cent. Each team must play heads-up ball to win.

Of the four teams in the regional, Campbell will be watched as a dark horse. Little is known of the entry. Some predict Campbell may be another Gaylord.

Tonight's battles will be interesting to watch from the standpoint of defense play. Brainerd, Moorhead and Glenwood are each known to have the same type of defense.

Brainerd is expected to force the play from the opening whistle. As a result the game may establish a terrific pace from the start, continuing through to the final gun.

The final lap of the state high school basketball race also starts tonight in the regional tournament at Thief River Falls, to decide the entrant for the state championship tourney next week at the Minnesota field house.

Champions will be decided in the two remaining regions in tournaments starting tomorrow, which will complete the entry list of eight teams for the state meet. Here is the line-up as it stood today:

Champions already selected—
Region 1—Rochester.
Region 3—Glencoe.
Region 5—Buffalo.
Region 7—Chisholm.

Tournaments scheduled for this week-end—
Region 6, Brainerd (starting tonight)—
Brainerd vs. Moorhead, 8 P. M.
Campbell vs. Glenwood, 9:15 P. M.
Region 8 at Thief River Falls (starting tonight)—
Mahnomen vs. Warren.
Bemidji vs. Hallock.
Region 4 at South St. Paul (starting Friday)—
Northfield vs. New Prague.
Stillwater vs. St. Paul Central.
Region 2 at Mankato (starting Friday)—
Mankato vs. Luverne.
Fairmont vs. Mountain Lake.

Bemidji and Warren are favorites in the Thief River Falls tournament. None of the teams entered in the eighth region tournament except Bemidji ever has been entered in the state tournament.

All arrangements for the games that hold state-wide interest were complete at the Brainerd high school today.

The fever for basketball will continue into the games tonight with the result that crowds will fill the gymnasium to capacity.

As against Moorhead's three year enviable record, Brainerd won 22 out of 25 games this season.

Campbell came to town first, arriving last evening. It is the first regional tournament the town has entered and the 324 people back home are praying and shouting for their boys to win.

The Campbell boys won their district games at Morris over opposition from Fergus Falls, Morris, Browns Valley and Elbow Lake. The team has won 27 out of 28 games this season and has won 62 out of 68 in the last three years.

Coach John Keohane will pin his hopes on the following against Glenwood: Mellon, 26, Steele, 25, forwards; A. Hemmerling, 27, center; Hage, 22, Johnson, 23, guards; subs, H. Hemmerling, 25, forward; Grand, 8, center; Bob Glover, 7, guard.

Edward C. Slettedahl, school superintendent at Campbell, is the faculty representative at the tournament.

Glenn Hanna, coach of the Moorhead team, brought his team of young giants into town at 3 P. M. today and stated to The Dispatch he anticipated the toughest regional tournament he had ever entered.

The coach gave his team a 50-50 chance to win.

"What do you dope your chances?" he was asked.

"It should be an even break," Mr. Hanna said.

The team has but one of its regulars from last year's team back, Marquardt, 6 feet three inch center. The others wore uniforms last year and were almost the equal of the first string, however, and have since im-

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

March 19, 1906

Brainerd has the honor and distinction of having a person who translated Sudermann's "St. Johns Fire" which has been described by well known critics as an excellent work. Miss Nance O'Neill plays this piece tonight, but it is another translation at the opera house. Miss Grace E. Polk translated the work, and her book has been on sale for some time.

Judge T. C. Blewitt has a very unique sign on the door of his private office.

J. C. Congdon left for St. Paul this afternoon to attend a state campfire meeting. F. E. Kenney will go down tomorrow to attend the same meeting.

A. Nolan, who has been confined to his home since the middle of January with rheumatism and a severe attack of asthma is still unable to be out, although considerably improved.

The memory of St. Patrick was revered on Saturday evening when the Brainerd opera house was packed to capacity. James P. Boyle of Indianapolis was the speaker of the evening. The program opened with an overture by Graham's orchestra, followed by several musical numbers by local talent.

There will be a meeting of county commissioners of Cass county at Walker tomorrow and a warm fight is scheduled to be pulled off over the office of county attorney. County Attorney DeLury has resigned and J. S. Scribner of Backus, Attorney Frank Smith of Cass Lake and Attorney LaDue of Pine River are the three candidates for the position.

Entertains in Compliment to Friend

Miss Dana Peterson, 923 South Tenth street, entertained at her home on Tuesday evening in compliment to Miss Eva Gravell, it being her birthday anniversary.

The evening was spent socially, and a dainty luncheon served by Miss Peterson. Miss Gravell received many pretty gifts.

Mission Circle of the First Baptist church will be entertained by Mrs. Geo. A. Tracy, at her home, 519 North Eighth street, Friday afternoon, March 20. Mrs. Elizabeth Eastbrook, field worker of the Women's Baptist Mission society of Minnesota will be present at this meeting to confer with the ladies regarding various phases of the work. A large attendance is especially urged for this meeting. Visitors are cordially welcome.

Presbyterian Missionary Society

Mrs. A. M. Opsahl and Mrs. Albert Englund will be hostesses at the Presbyterian Missionary society on Friday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Opsahl, 409 North Fourth St. A program is as follows:

Devotional leader—Mrs. Chas. Lawson.

Study book, "Star of India"—Mrs. J. A. McKay.

Business.

Benediction.

All members and friends are invited to attend.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A wife, young and pretty and full of pep, wants to know if she is being too generous or making a serious mistake in her marriage arrangements. Her husband goes to college and she goes to work and pays all their expenses. "Because of course, he can't work and study, too, and he is ambitious," she explains.

What, I ask, prevents him getting a part time job and working after school and studying nights?

The youngsters married recently, and they live in faraway California. He is studying to be a physician and the road is a long and a difficult one, so she wants to help him.

Why not? In the end, if they really love each other, why shouldn't they be happy? If she contributes to his success and he's got the right material in him, he's going to remember all his days how he wouldn't be wherever he gets, if she hadn't put her little self into the fight and struggled for him. Many wives struggle with their young husbands, but this one is struggling for him. She could take very good care of herself and have a few luxuries but she wanted to marry him. What he would have done if he hadn't married her—I don't know.

The one difficulty is this. Men are human, even if some women don't think so. They are full of weaknesses, most of them, and a woman with too big a heart can make the road so easy that it will become increasingly difficult for a man to detour into the hard road again. He can lean and lean until he isn't able to stand by himself. And when he leans that hard he gets to like her less and less because he knows he is imposing, and he knows that she must know it. He knows she should resent it, even if she doesn't. And women who do a great deal for men don't resent it. That's the pity of it. Their big hearts get them anywhere but where they want to be. People who do too much for you are in the same class as people to whom you owe money. You thoroughly dislike them.

The real thing about a situation like this is to know when you set out where you want to go, determine to go there and to let nothing interfere. If a man who marries and lets his wife pay for his home and his board wants to get there for her sake as well as his own, and helps her in every way he can, with the housework and other irritating duties that she can't avoid if she is going to go out and earn the living, I can't see much harm in his behavior.

Don't ever think that household duties aren't a bother to a woman who has to work and earn the living, keep her husband happy, manage to look well on almost nothing, and try to keep the corners of her mouth turning upward. That kind of life makes character in the right sort, and makes the other kind desperate. It's up to the girl to decide whether she wants to take a hard road like that, and if she takes it, it's up to her to do it without complaining.

Women who know what they are getting when they start such a life are poor sports to complain when they are knee deep in the struggle. These days any girl who would chose such a road, is usually the kind with the character to see it through.

There's a thrill in knowing there are some girls left who aren't hunting martial beds of roses. Good luck to you, Mrs. California. You are worth holding and I hope he works like a Trojan to keep you loving him the way you do. It's his job now to keep you from being disillusioned.

BRAINERD 25 Years Ago

March 19, 1906

Brainerd has the honor and distinction of having a person who translated Sudermann's "St. Johns Fire" which has been described by well known critics as an excellent work. Miss Nance O'Neill plays this piece tonight, but it is another translation, at the opera house. Miss Grace E. Polk translated the work, and her book has been on sale for some time.

Judge T. C. Blewitt has a very unique sign on the door of his private office.

J. C. Congdon left for St. Paul this afternoon to attend a state campfire meeting. F. E. Kenney will go down tomorrow to attend the same meeting.

A. Nolan, who has been confined to his home since the middle of January with rheumatism and a severe attack of asthma is still unable to be out, although considerably improved.

The memory of St. Patrick was revered on Saturday evening when the Brainerd opera house was packed to capacity. James P. Boyle of Indianapolis was the speaker of the evening. The program opened with an overture by Graham's orchestra, followed by several musical numbers by local talent.

There will be a meeting of county commissioners of Cass county at Walker tomorrow and a warm fight is scheduled to be pulled off over the office of county attorney. County Attorney DeLury has resigned and J. S. Scribner of Backus, Attorney Frank Smith of Cass Lake and Attorney LaDue of Pine River are the three candidates for the position.

Entertains in Compliment to Friend

Study book, "Star of India"—Mrs. J. A. McKay.

Business.

Benediction.

All members and friends are invited to attend.

OH THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

Copyright 1931, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

A wife, young and pretty and full of pep, wants to know if she is being too generous or making a serious mistake in her marriage arrangements. Her husband goes to college and she goes to work and pays all their expenses. "Because of course, he can't work and study, too, and he is ambitious," she explains.

What, I ask, prevents him getting a part time job and working after school and studying nights?

The youngsters married recently, and they live in faraway California. He is studying to be a physician and the road is a long and a difficult one, so she wants to help him.

Why not? In the end, if they really love each other, why shouldn't they be happy? If she contributes to his success and he's got the right material in him, he's going to remember all his days how he wouldn't be wherever he gets, if she hadn't put her little self into the fight and struggled for him. Many wives struggle with their young husbands, but this one is struggling for him. She could take very good care of herself and have a few luxuries but she wanted to marry him. What he would have done if he hadn't married her—I don't know.

The one difficulty is this. Men are human, even if some women don't think so. They are full of weaknesses, most of them, and a woman with too big a heart can make the road so easy that it will become increasingly difficult for a man to detour into the hard road again. He can lean and lean until he isn't able to stand by himself. And when he leans that hard he gets to like her less and less because he knows he is imposing, and he knows that she must know it. He knows she should resent it, even if she doesn't. And women who do a great deal for men don't resent it. That's the pity of it. Their big hearts get them anywhere but where they want to be. People who do too much for you are in the same class as people to whom you owe money. You thoroughly dislike them.

The real thing about a situation like this is to know when you set out where you want to go, determine to go there and to let nothing interfere. If a man who marries and lets his wife pay for his home and his board wants to get there for her sake as well as his own, and helps her in every way he can, with the housework and other irritating duties that she can't avoid if she is going to go out and earn the living, I can't see much harm in his behavior.

Don't ever think that household duties aren't a bother to a woman who has to work and earn the living, keep her husband happy, manage to look well on almost nothing, and try to keep the corners of her mouth turning upward. That kind of life makes character in the right sort, and makes the other kind desperate. It's up to the girl to decide whether she wants to take a hard road like that, and if she takes it, it's up to her to do it without complaining.

Women who know what they are getting when they start such a life are poor sports to complain when they are knee deep in the struggle. These days any girl who would chose such a road, is usually the kind with the character to see it through.

There's a thrill in knowing there are some girls left who aren't hunting martial beds of roses. Good luck to you, Mrs. California. You are worth holding and I hope he works like a Trojan to keep you loving him the way you do. It's his job now to keep you from being disillusioned.

CHARLES A. WELLS TO SPEAK HERE

Newspaperman Addresses Evening Service, March 22, of First Baptist Church

Charles A. Wells, former newspaper correspondent in the Orient, western comic strip artist, sports cartoonist and more recently Baptist minister in an Oakland, Calif., church, will address the evening service in the First Baptist church of Brainerd on Sunday, March 22.

Mr. Wells is one of those who have proved that the pen, in very truth, is "mightier than the sword," since only his skill as an artist once stood between him and a very unpleasant death by decapitation in China. Many artists, Mr. Wells admits, have, for one reason or another, had to run for their lives; more have had to hide for their lives, but few, he thinks, have been forced to draw for their lives. It came about in this way:

While making newspaper sketches in the wake of the retreating Northern Chinese army under Chan Tso Ling, the deposed Manchurian war lord, he was pounced upon by a squad of coolie soldiers, who were scouring the countryside for a Russian spy, said to have been tinting the northern army with red propaganda. Dragged to a squalid camp and brought before a group of Chinese officers scarcely more intelligent than their coolie privates, Mr. Wells saw the sudden end to a promising career as coincidental with the morrow's sunrise, if not sooner.

His efforts to explain to the officers that he was not a Russian Bolshevik, but an American citizen to be respected as such, got absolutely nowhere since none of the group spoke a single word of English. The oft-repeated words "America" and "United States" simply meant nothing, and it was easier to convict him than attempt to understand.

The camp cook, however, did have a few words of Pigeon-English, but not even he had heard the word "America." However, from him Mr. Wells learned that his worst fears were even worse than he had thought. The cook told the young artist that as soon as the officer in command had a little leisure it was his intention to have his head chopped off with a meat ax and let it go at that. With the prospect before him, Mr. Wells redoubled his efforts to identify himself, and finally, in desperation, snatched a piece of rice paper from the officers' camp table and dashed off a sketch of Uncle Sam, high hat, goatee, strap-down trousers and all.

The effect was magical. The officers went into an excited huddle, with much sing-song conversation, and presently it developed that the likeness of Uncle Sam was well known and meant much. A few minutes later, Mr. Wells was seated on the most comfortable biscuit box in the camp, sipping a cup of fragrant Oolong, and telling his hosts, by means of the sign language, that everything was jake and not to bother about apologiznig.

Since his return from the Orient, Mr. Wells has devoted himself to religious work. He is an ordained Baptist minister and is at present engaged in presenting the Baptist missionary program at a series of meetings throughout the country. He uses his gifts as a cartoonist to illustrate his addresses, making his points by means of swift sketches on a mammoth drawing pad.

DAGGETT BROOK

There was a fairly good attendance at the Farm Bureau meeting last Saturday night. Mrs. Claus of Fort Ripley was one of the speakers of the evening. Mr. Roth, the county agent, was out and gave an interesting talk also.

We understand that at the annual town meeting a week ago that Mr. Fuch was re-elected to the town board and that the other officials remain the same.

Leonard Kraklau and Francis Dixon are shingling John James' barn.

Most of the folks around who have been having the flu, seem to have recovered.

We understand that the Richolson family will soon be moving on to their own place south of Engelhart's.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fallon have a new girl, born a few days ago.

SENIORS PRESENT CLASS MEMORIAL

Picture Painted by Mrs. J. G. Heald, "First Building in Our City"

IS OLD TRADING POST

Artist Gives Story of the Interesting, Historic Structure

The seniors of '31 chose, for the subject of their class memorial picture, "The First Building in Our City." The picture was presented to the high school yesterday, and will hang in the school library, suplementing "The Coming of the First White Man," which was placed there by the class of '30.

It was generally agreed by a number of our citizens longest in residence here that the first building was the old trading post, on the east side of the river near the present railroad bridge. As no photographs of the building left standing on them. As a be found, Mrs. J. G. Heald—the artist chosen to execute the classes commission—has painted the picture from detailed descriptions given by these citizens, and by a painstaking study of the grounds and the dilapidated old building left standnig on them. As a result, Brainerd now has as authentic a pictorial record of her beginning as it is possible, at this late date, to obtain. For this, she owes a debt of gratitude to the patriotism and generosity of the students of the class of '31.

A bit of mystery surrounds the log structure which was the original trading post. The state historical society's records, those of the Northern Pacific general offices could throw no light, the "oldest inhabitant" could not say as to when or by whom it was built. In all probability, the Puget Sound Land Company placed it there as headquarters for their activities in this vicinity, at or before the railroad's survey in 1870. No one can say who was the first trader in charge of the post. The first of whom there is accurate information was James Hallett, who built the present frame structure in 1872, using it for office and hotel originally and then as a grocery store, after the log structure had burned or been torn down. In an old city directory of 1888 belonging to Ernest Jones, who was one of the first children born in the city of Brainerd he is listed thus:

"Hallett, J. H. Gen'l Merchant, Bluff and Main, res. same." Hallett did quite an extensive trade with the Chippewas, who brought in their furs, blueberries, etc. Mrs. Heald has stressed this fact by the group in the foreground of her picture—three Indians, their ponies, their birchbark baskets of blueberries, etc.

The "stockade" used as a storage space between the buildings, the piles of blankets and the birchbark canoe on the platform, the old bucket sweep well, the lilac bushes beyond, the road that winds around and down the hill to the ferry—are all vouched for by those who knew the place well in their childhood. Dr. J. A. Thabes says that, as a boy, he has seen the carcasses of slain deer piled on the platform almost as high as the eaves of the cabin. John Koop says, "literally trainloads of blueberries have been shipped from that stockade."

In addition to the two just mentioned, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Sr., Ernest Jones, Mrs. Ida Crowley Forsythe, Joseph Kiebler, Mrs. C. D. McKay, Mrs. George Ames, Miss Maude Eustis, Carl Wright, Willard Badeaux, Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley, Mrs. R. L. Sheets and Mrs. G. E. Lammon gave valuable assistance in compiling the picture. Also Henry I. Cohen, president of the Crow Wing County Historical society and one of the early settlers. If there are any other citizens of Brainerd who can supply further information, they are urged to communicate with Mrs. Heald. The picture can be seen at the high school library at any time when the building is open.

SUNSHINE MELLOWS Heat Purifies

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. LUCKY STRIKE—made of the finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—THEN—"IT'S TOASTED"—an extra, secret heating process. Harsh irritants present in all raw tobaccos are expelled by "TOASTING." These irritants are sold to others. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

CHARLES A. WELLS TO SPEAK HERE

Newspaperman Addresses Evening Service, March 22, of First Baptist Church

Charles A. Wells, former newspaper correspondent in the Orient, western comic strip artist, sports cartoonist and more recently Baptist minister in an Oakland, Calif., church, will address the evening service in the First Baptist church of Brainerd on Sunday, March 22.

Mr. Wells is one of those who have proved that the pen, in very truth, is "mightier than the sword," since only his skill as an artist once stood between him and a very unpleasant death by decapitation in China. Many artists, Mr. Wells admits, have, for one reason or another, had to run for their lives; more have had to hide for their lives, but few, he thinks, have been forced to draw for their lives. It came about in this way:

While making newspaper sketches in the wake of the retreating Northern Chinese army under Chan Tso Ling, the deposed Manchurian war lord, he was pounced upon by a squad of coolie soldiers, who were scouring the countryside for a Russian spy, said to have been tinting the northern army with red propaganda. Dragged to a squalid camp and brought before a group of Chinese officers scarcely more intelligent than their coolie privates, Mr. Wells saw the sudden end to a promising career as coincidental with the morrow's sunrise, if not sooner.

His efforts to explain to the officers that he was not a Russian Bolshevik, but an American citizen to be respected as such, got absolutely nowhere since none of the group spoke a single word of English. The oft-repeated words "America" and "United States" simply meant nothing, and it was easier to convict him than attempt to understand.

The camp cook, however, did have a few words of Pigeon-English, but not even he had heard the word "America." However, from him Mr. Wells learned that his worst fears were even worse than he had thought. The cook told the young artist that as soon as the officer in command had a little leisure it was his intention to have his head chopped off with a meat ax and let it go at that. With the prospect before him, Mr. Wells redoubled his efforts to identify himself, and finally, in desperation, snatched a piece of rice paper from the officers' camp table and dashed off a sketch of Uncle Sam, high hat, goatee, strap-down trousers and all.

The effect was magical. The officers went into an excited huddle, with much sing-song conversation, and presently it developed that the likeness of Uncle Sam was well known and meant much. A few minutes later, Mr. Wells was seated on the most comfortable biscuit box in the camp, sipping a cup of fragrant Oolong, and telling his hosts, by means of the sign language, that everything was jake and not to bother about apologiznig.

Since his return from the Orient, Mr. Wells has devoted himself to religious work. He is an ordained Baptist minister and is at present engaged in presenting the Baptist missionary program at a series of meetings throughout the country. His uses his gifts as a cartoonist to illustrate his addresses, making his points by means of swift sketches on a mammoth drawing pad.

DAGGETT BROOK

There was a fairly good attendance at the Farm Bureau meeting last Saturday night. Mrs. Claus of Fort Ripley was one of the speakers of the evening. Mr. Roth, the county agent, was out and gave an interesting talk also.

We understand that at the annual town meeting a week ago that Mr. Fuch was re-elected to the town board and that the other officials remain the same.

Leonard Kraklau and Francis Dixon are shingling John James' barn.

Most of the folks around who have been having the flu, seem to have recovered.

We understand that the Richolson family will soon be moving on to their own place south of Engelhart's.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fallon have a new girl, born a few days ago.

SENIORS PRESENT CLASS MEMORIAL

Picture Painted by Mrs. J. G. Heald, "First Building in Our City"

IS OLD TRADING POST

Artist Gives Story of the Interesting, Historic Structure

The seniors of '31 chose, for the subject of their class memorial picture, "The First Building in Our City." The picture was presented to the high school yesterday, and will hang in the school library, suplementing "The Coming of the First White Man," which was placed there by the class of '30.

It was generally agreed by a number of our citizens longest in residence here that the first building was the old trading post, on the east side of the river near the present railroad bridge. As no photographs of the building left standing on them. As a be found, Mrs. J. G. Heald—the artist chosen to execute the classes commission—has painted the picture from detailed descriptions given by these citizens, and by a painstaking study of the grounds and the dilapidated old building left standnig on them. As a result, Brainerd now has as authentic a pictorial record of her beginning as it is possible, at this late date, to obtain. For this, she owes a debt of gratitude to the patriotism and generosity of the students of the class of '31.

A bit of mystery surrounds the log structure which was the original trading post. The state historical society's records, those of the Northern Pacific general offices could throw no light, the "oldest inhabitant" could not say as to when or by whom it was built. In all probability, the Puget Sound Land Company placed it there as headquarters for their activities in this vicinity, at or before the railroad's survey in 1870. No one can say who was the first trader in charge of the post. The first of whom there is accurate information was James Hallett, who built the present frame structure in 1872, using it for office and hotel originally and then as a grocery store, after the log structure had burned or been torn down. In an old city directory of 1888 belonging to Ernest Jones, who was one of the first children born in the city of Brainerd he is listed thus:

"Hallett, J. H. Gen'l Merchant, Bluff and Main, res. same." Hallett did quite an extensive trade with the Chippewas, who brought in their furs, blueberries, etc. Mrs. Heald has stressed this fact by the group in the foreground of her picture—three Indians, their ponies, their birchbark baskets of blueberries, etc.

The "stockade" used as a storage space between the buildings, the piles of blankets and the birchbark canoe on the platform, the old bucket sweep well, the lilac bushes beyond, the road that winds around and down the hill to the ferry—are all vouched for by those who knew the place well in their childhood. Dr. J. A. Thabes says that, as a boy, he has seen the carcasses of slain deer piled on the platform almost as high as the eaves of the cabin. John Koop says, "literally trainloads of blueberries have been shipped from that stockade."

In addition to the two just mentioned, Mrs. J. A. Thabes, Sr., Ernest Jones, Mrs. Ida Crowley Forsythe, Joseph Kiebler, Mrs. C. D. McKay, Mrs. George Ames, Miss Maude Eustis, Carl Wright, Willard Badeaux, Mrs. Irma Camp Hartley, Mrs. R. L. Sheets and Mrs. G. E. Lammon gave valuable assistance in compiling the picture—also Henry I. Cohen, president of the Crow Wing County Historical society and one of the early settlers. If there are any other citizens of Brainerd who can supply further information, they are urged to communicate with Mrs. Heald. The picture can be seen at the high school library at any time when the building is open.

Redistricting Plans for Sixth District

THE St. Cloud Daily Times and Daily Journal-Press comments that the Minnesota congressmen are camping at St. Paul to assist the legislature in carving the state into nine districts. There have been several redistricting plans proposed, and the latest is by Lieutenant-Governor Arens, who says he is not paying any attention to political possibilities, but has a plan that would give nearly as equal population as practical with regular lines, eliminating the shoestring irregularities.

This is his plan for the Sixth district: Crow Wing, Benton, Morrison, Todd and Stearns, from the present Sixth district; Mille Lacs, Isanti, Chisago, Pine and Kanabec, of the present Tenth; Douglas, Pope, Grant, Stevens, Traverse and Big Stone of the present Seventh.

This would be a district stretching across the state in its midriff.

Arens may not have paid any attention to political exigencies, but he surely made this proposed Sixth district pretty safely Farmer-Labor. The voting was so wild in the last election that the votes of no two opposing candidates give a correct idea of what would happen in normal years. Taking the vote of Arens and John H. Hougen, candidates for lieutenant governor, a reasonably fair idea can be obtained, although Arens ran ahead of his ticket. He carried all these counties but Stevens and Todd, and his plurality over Hougen, the Republican candidate, was over eleven thousand.

It is hardly probable that Arens' plan will be adopted.

Chicago Host to Safety Congress

CHICAGO has been chosen as the setting for the twentieth annual Safety Congress to be held October 12 to 16 this year, the executive committee of the National Safety Council has announced. Headquarters will be in the Stevens hotel.

The safety congress will bring together 7,000 delegates from all parts of the world. It has come in recent years to be known as a miniature "safety university" because of its large program. Nearly 400 noted speakers will talk at the 150 sessions.

Chicago also entertained the Congress in 1929 and conducted, at the same time, a "safety week" drive of vast proportions. Plans for the 1931 gathering call for a similar campaign. The 1930 Congress, held in Pittsburgh the first of October that year, was one of the largest meetings in history despite the business depression.

Prior to the 1931 Safety Congress, approximately 30 regional safety conferences will be held throughout the country. These meetings will have an average attendance of 1,000 delegates.

THE condition of a patient at Ironwood, Mich., whose heart beats so faintly no pulse beats can be felt was called to the attention of the Grand View hospital there. Attendance at the regional tournament at Brainerd would speed up the patient's heart.

A PARADE and pageant commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the city of Moorhead is being planned by the Chomber of Commerce of that city. Brainerd has a kind of an elderly feeling in the matter as it celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1922.

A SOUTHERN Minnesota man has made three unsuccessful attempts to kill himself. Why doesn't he go into Tom Schall's office and give three cheers for the Minneapolis Journal? says Billy Noonan of the Baudette Region.

THE Nautilus, submarine which is to dive under North Pole ice, encountered difficulties when only a few hundred miles from its American outfitting port and had to turn back temporarily.

THE idea of a legislature voting diplomas to suspended farm school students would be but a step in advance to the legislators voting themselves degrees of Doctor of Philosophy.

PRESIDENT HOOVER is to take a vacation, but he will have to work double shifts making preparations for the short layoff from official cares.

HANNA EXPECTS HARDEST BATTLE EVER IN

CLASS OF STATE, MOORHEAD, MEETS BRAINERD IN FIRST

proved to the point where Moorhead is as fast as it ever was.

The Spuds have gone to the state tournament seven years consecutively, winning two out of the three past championships. Last year they were runners-up, losing to Mechanics Arts of St. Paul.

The team won all its games this season.

Coach Hanna announced his lineup tonight as follows: Kall, Scranz, forwards; Marquardt, center; Thompson, Fridlund, guards; subs, Anderson, forward; Erickson, center; Knauf, guard.

Moorhead was accompanied by its pep band.

The Glenwood team is expected in the city about 4 P. M.

Glenwood's entry string, their playing numbers and number of years each player has been in high school basketball follow: Kenneth Leduc, 7, senior, 4 years; Andy Leago, 3, senior, 4 years; Andy Grimsrud, 9, sophomore, 1 year; Earl Hanson, 10, sophomore, 2 years; Walter Hammond, 4, junior, 2 years; Dean Brendal, 5, junior, 2 years; Harold Simonson, 8, senior, 3 years; Lyle Swisher, 6, sophomore, 2 years. Leduc captains the Glenwood quintet, A. W. Evanson is the coach and H. R. Hastings is the faculty representative.

A tri-motored Ford plane was reported this afternoon planning to carry a capacity load of fans from Glenwood.

The teams are travelling by buses and automobiles.

Campbell brought along a few fans. If it wins its game tonight, the little town will close up shop and come to Brainerd for the finals.

Coach Bill Dammann will use the same string he carried in the district tournament. He will have Bob Wygle and Elmer Foster, forwards; Gerry Wygle, center; Nathan Schuety and Vern Marshall, guards, on the regulars and will have Ted Franks, forward, Maurice Larson, forward, and Lowell White, guard, on the substitute string.

General Secretary of the Minnesota High School League O. E. Smith of Anoka will be present at the tournament here tonight.

CREAMERY TEAM LOSES TO CO. K

BRAINERD CAGERS IN LEAD AT HALF; BEMIDJI NOSES OUT 31 TO 29 WIN

The Russell Creamery Co. cage team was back in Brainerd today after losing a hard fought game to Company K at Bemidji last evening.

Brainerd lead at the half 12 to 10, slumped in the third quarter and came back in the final quarter to play on even terms. The Brainerd team lost, 31-29.

Frank Wise and Earl Fuller scored eight points each to lead in the basket shooting.

Players making the trip were: Wise, Guin, Fuller, Molstad, Paine, Benny Foster, Kane.

The Creamery team is now making arrangements for a second game to be played here with Bronko Nagurski's quintet a week from Saturday evening.

ST. PAUL Y TEAM IN UPHILL BATTLE GOING TO TOURNEY

St. Paul, March 19.—(U.P.)—The St. Paul Y. M. C. A. basketball team wanted to play in the national championship tournament which starts next Thursday at Buffalo, N. Y., but funds were lacking.

Members of the team canvassed the city for financial backing. A business man donated the use of a limousine. A garage gave two new tires and a filling station contributed a change of oil and grease.

Each player made a contribution toward expenses for the long trip. Then they washed and polished the limousine, brushed up the upholstery, filled the tires with air and parked it in front of the Y. M. C. A. building.

Five minutes later it was stolen.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S STATUS IN DOUBT

BECAME INVOLVED IN DIFFERENCE OF OPINION WITH THE NORTH CENTRAL ASS'N.

INVESTIGATORS ATTEMPTED TO MAKE SURVEY OF ATHLETICS AT THAT SCHOOL

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 19.—Northwestern University's status in the North Central Association of Colleges and secondary schools remained in doubt today as the association's board of review on athletics recommended Northwestern's case be returned to it with power to act thereon.

Northwestern became involved in a difference of opinion with the North Central when investigators attempted to make a survey of athletics at that school in February.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern was asked to appear before representatives of the North Central today to explain the stand his school assumed in asking the investigators to suspend their activities at the Evanston institution.

If Northwestern should decide to withhold the incompleted report of the North Central investigators, that school would automatically be left off the association's list of approved institutions.

Members of the North Central have a rule which specifies that athletic contests will not be scheduled with schools which have been dropped from the accredited list because of failure to abide by its athletic standards.

Northwestern, according to President H. M. Gage of Coe College, has made an "unfortunate interpretation of the purpose of the investigators," and that the North Central's purpose was to co-operate with the Big Ten. He said that the North Central was not interested in individual cases, but in bringing about a set of standards for all schools.

Rumors of irregularities at Northwestern have been freely circulated since that school went through an undefeated season in football in the Big Ten and won its first basketball championship in history this season.

Four other members of the Big Ten, Minnesota, Chicago, Illinios and Ohio State, were investigated by the North Central at the same time as Northwestern and there were no frictions at those institutions.

Hoover Party Heading Toward Porto Rico

Washington, March 19.—(U.P.)—The navy department was advised by radio today that the battleship Arizona, carrying President Hoover and party, was 75 miles east of Norfolk at noon today, heading toward the western tip of Porto Rico.

The weather was reported good, with a smooth sea and somewhat hazy atmospheric conditions.

JEAN BOROTRA, ROCKAFELLOW IN SEMI-FINALS

FRENCHMAN HAS BOUNDED TRADITIONAL WAY OVER 4 RIVALS

SHIELDS MEETS LANDRY OF FRANCE, BELL PLAYS AYDELOTTE

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, March 19.—An international final match loomed today as competition in United States indoor tennis championships progressed.

The finalist was to be determined in the upper half of the bracket while two semi-finalists were to be proven in the lower half.

Jean Borotra of France and Perrine G. Rockafellow of New York meet in a semi-final match today. Borotra has bounded in his traditional way over four rivals while the advance of the New Yorker was marked by an upset victory. Rockafellow yesterday won from Clifford Sutter, New Orleans. The defeat was surprising because Sutter was the No. 2 seeded player.

In the lower half, Frank Xavier Shields of New York meets Pierre Landry of France while Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, plays William Aydelotte, also of New York.

Shields, Landry and Bell climbed to the semi-finals without unorthodox results while Aydelotte reached the next to the last hurdle through an unlooked for victory. He eliminated Christian Boussus of France in a quarter-final match yesterday.

Semi-finals matches scheduled in the doubles were:

Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans and Pierre Landry of France vs. William Aydelotte and Perrine Rockafellow of New York.

Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, and Meritt Cutler of New York vs. Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus of France.

Progress in the doubles was accomplished without untoward incident except for the fact that Borotra and Boussus had a real tussle with Donald Cram and Kimbark Peterson, of Nashville in yesterday's quarter-final. The French won out finally at 9-7, 6-3.

Aydelotte and Rockafellow, a veteran combination, was favored in the top bracket, with the other match seen as a toss-up.

ALL STARS, MOOSE WIN AT TEN PINS

The All Stars took two games from the Monument Works last evening at Van's Alleys, each team having only three men. Bill McGarry rolled high with 234 single and 552 total.

The Moose took two games from the Brainos by close margins.

3 IMPROVEMENTS TO BE BID ON APRIL 4

Commissioners to Consider Surfacing of Roads at Next Meeting; Bridge Estimate Made

Proceedings of the Board of County Commissioners follow:

Board met in adjourned session on Saturday, March 7, at 10 a. m. All members present.

Minutes of the meeting held Feb. 7 were read and duly approved.

Commissioner Lowey offered the following resolution and moved its adoption:

BE IT RESOLVED, that the sum of $2,690.00 be set apart from the General Revenue Fund and appropriated subject to the order of the Dean of the Department of Agriculture of the University of Minnesota for the support of County co-operative extension work in agriculture and home economics in Crow Wing County, for the year beginning July 1, 1931, in accordance with Chapter 423, Laws 1923, and acts supplementary thereto.

Which resolution being seconded by Commissioner Dewing was duly adopted, all members voting "Aye."

On motion of Commissioner Dewing seconded by Commissioner Johnstone, the County Auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for oil and tarvia surfacing of 6.2 miles of State Aid Road No. 5, south of Deerwood. Bids to be received at the April 4 meeting of the board at 2 p. m. The County Engineer submitted his estimate at $12,360.86 for tarvia sufacing and $10,463.40 for oil and tarvia surfacing.

A petition was received from residents of the Towns of Center, Lake Edward, Mission, Pelican and Watertown for tarvia surfacing of State Aid Road No. 3, starting at Merrifield and extending ten miles north. On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Anderson, the County Auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for tarvia surfacing State Aid Road No. 3 starting at Merrifield and extending 8 miles north. Bids to be received at the April 4 meeting of the board at 2 p. m. The County Engineer submitted his estimate at $18,624.90.

Fred Johnson again appeared before the board requesting the county to straighten out two curves on State Aid Road No. 3. On motion the board is to look this over on March 28.

The plat of "Paradise Beach" platted by O'Brien Merc. Co., Elmer Erickson and F. E. Bieri from N. 25.1 A. of Lot 3 and all of Lot 4, Sec. 24, Twp. 44, Range 30 was on motion approved.

The County Engineer submitted an estimate of $13,673.44 for the construction of a bridge and approach on State Aid Road No. 3 near Cross Lake Dam. No action was taken.

On motion of Commissioner Johnstone seconded by Commissioner Dewing, the County Auditor was instructed to advertise for bids for 1710 ft. of tarvia surfacing on W. L. Road No. 16 from T. H. No. 2 at Crosby. Bids to be received at the April 4 meeting of the board at 2 p. m. The County Engineer submitted his estimate at $580.86.

On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Johnstone, W. A. M. Johnston, Custodian of the Court House, was authorized to purchase a new flag for the court house and to see that the Farmers' Room be properly lighted.

A delegation of citizens appeared before the board claiming an inaccurate survey of Auditor's Subdivision of SE¼, Sec. 6, Twp. 46, Range 28. On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Johnstone, the matter was laid on the table until the next meeting of the board.

The County Engineer submitted his estimate of $4,160.63 for the construction of a road between Platte Lake Township and Morrison County. On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Dewing, the board is to view this road on March 28.

On motion the report of the Mining Inspector for February was accepted and ordered placed on file.

A petition was received from Joseph M. Wells and others for the survey of Sec. 25, Twp. 134, Range 29. On motion hearing was ordered on same for April 4, 1931, at 3 p. m.

On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Johnstone, the County Engineer was authorized to purchase 100 county maps at 60c each.

On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Anderson, the County Engineer is to investigate a complaint made against E. W. Wunderlich, maintenance man on W. L. Road No. 3.

On motion of Commissioner Lowey seconded by Commissioner Johnstone, the bond of D. E. Whitney, County Coroner, with the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co., as surety was approved.

On motion a dancing permit was granted Mike Duetz, subject to the approval of the Sheriff and upon a payment of $10.00.

On motion, dance permit granted Ted Erickson at the Feb. 7 meeting was ordered cancelled.

On motion, $350 was appropriated to the 10,000 Lakes Association for advertising resources of the county instead of $300 which was appropriated Feb. 7 in error.

On motion, copy of a resolution received from Aitkin County Board was ordered placed on the table.

Redistricting Plans for Sixth District

THE St. Cloud Daily Times and Daily Journal-Press comments that the Minnesota congressmen are camping at St. Paul to assist the legislature in carving the state into nine districts. There have been several redistricting plans proposed, and the latest is by Lieutenant-Governor Arens, who says he is not paying any attention to political possibilities, but has a plan that would give nearly as equal population as practical with regular lines, eliminating the shoestring irregularities.

This is his plan for the Sixth district: Crow Wing, Benton, Morrison, Todd and Stearns, from the present Sixth district; Mille Lacs, Isanti, Chisago, Pine and Kanabec, of the present Tenth; Douglas, Pope, Grant, Stevens, Traverse and Big Stone of the present Seventh.

This would be a district stretching across the state in its midriff.

Arens may not have paid any attention to political exigencies, but he surely made this proposed Sixth district pretty safely Farmer-Labor. The voting was so wild in the last election that the votes of no two opposing candidates give a correct idea of what would happen in normal years. Taking the vote of Arens and John H. Hougen, candidates for lieutenant governor, a reasonably fair idea can be obtained, although Arens ran ahead of his ticket. He carried all these counties but Stevens and Todd, and his plurality over Hougen, the Republican candidate, was over eleven thousand.

It is hardly probable that Arens' plan will be adopted.

Chicago Host to Safety Congress

CHICAGO has been chosen as the setting for the twentieth annual Safety Congress to be held October 12 to 16 this year, the executive committee of the National Safety Council has announced. Headquarters will be in the Stevens hotel.

The safety congress will bring together 7,000 delegates from all parts of the world. It has come in recent years to be known as a miniature "safety university" because of its large program. Nearly 400 noted speakers will talk at the 150 sessions.

Chicago also entertained the Congress in 1929 and conducted, at the same time, a "safety week" drive of vast proportions. Plans for the 1931 gathering call for a similar campaign. The 1930 Congress, held in Pittsburgh the first of October that year, was one of the largest meetings in history despite the business depression.

Prior to the 1931 Safety Congress, approximately 30 regional safety conferences will be held throughout the country. These meetings will have an average attendance of 1,000 delegates.

THE condition of a patient at Ironwood, Mich., whose heart beats so faintly no pulse beats can be felt was called to the attention of the Grand View hospital there. Attendance at the regional tournament at Brainerd would speed up the patient's heart.

A PARADE and pageant commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the city of Moorhead is being planned by the Chomber of Commerce of that city. Brainerd has a kind of an elderly feeling in the matter as it celebrated its 50th anniversary in 1922.

A SOUTHERN Minnesota man has made three unsuccessful attempts to kill himself. Why doesn't he go into Tom Schall's office and give three cheers for the Minneapolis Journal? says Billy Noonan of the Baudette Region.

THE Nautilus, submarine which is to dive under North Pole ice, encountered difficulties when only a few hundred miles from its American outfitting port and had to turn back temporarily.

THE idea of a legislature voting diplomas to suspended farm school students would be but a step in advance to the legislators voting themselves degrees of Doctor of Philosophy.

PRESIDENT HOOVER is to take a vacation, but he will have to work double shifts making preparations for the short layoff from official cares.

LIGHT snows and rain are adding to the moisture content of the land.

HANNA EXPECTS HARDEST BATTLE EVER IN

CLASS OF STATE, MOORHEAD, MEETS BRAINERD IN FIRST

proved to the point where Moorhead is as fast as it ever was.

The Spuds have gone to the state tournament seven years consecutively, winning two out of the three past championships. Last year they were runners-up, losing to Mechanics Arts of St. Paul.

The team won all its games this season.

Coach Hanna announced his lineup tonight as follows: Kall, Scranz, forwards; Marquardt, center; Thompson, Fridlund, guards; subs, Anderson, forward; Erickson, center; Knauf, guard.

Moorhead was accompanied by its pep band.

The Glenwood team is expected in the city about 4 P. M.

Glenwood's entry string, their playing numbers and number of years each player has been in high school basketball follow: Kenneth Leduc, 7, senior, 4 years; Andy Leago, 3, senior, 4 years; Andy Grimsrud, 9, sophomore, 1 year; Earl Hanson, 10, sophomore, 2 years; Walter Hammond, 4, junior, 2 years; Dean Brendal, 5, junior, 2 years; Harold Simonson, 8, senior, 3 years; Lyle Swisher, 6, sophomore, 2 years. Leduc captains the Glenwood quintet, A. W. Evanson is the coach and H. R. Hastings is the faculty representative.

A tri-motored Ford plane was reported this afternoon planning to carry a capacity load of fans from Glenwood.

The teams are travelling by buses and automobiles.

Campbell brought along a few fans. If it wins its game tonight, the little town will close up shop and come to Brainerd for the finals.

Coach Bill Dammann will use the same string he carried in the district tournament. He will have Bob Wygle and Elmer Foster, forwards; Gerry Wygle, center; Nathan Schuety and Vern Marshall, guards, on the regulars and will have Ted Franks, forward, Maurice Larson, forward, and Lowell White, guard, on the substitute string.

General Secretary of the Minnesota High School League O. E. Smith of Anoka will be present at the tournament here tonight.

CREAMERY TEAM LOSES TO CO. K

BRAINERD CAGERS IN LEAD AT HALF; BEMIDJI NOSES OUT 31 TO 29 WIN

The Russell Creamery Co. cage team was back in Brainerd today after losing a hard fought game to Company K at Bemidji last evening.

Brainerd lead at the half 12 to 10, slumped in the third quarter and came back in the final quarter to play on even terms. The Brainerd team lost, 31-29.

Frank Wise and Earl Fuller scored eight points each to lead in the basket shooting.

Players making the trip were: Wise, Guin, Fuller, Molstad, Paine, Benny Foster, Kane.

The Creamery team is now making arrangements for a second game to be played here with Bronko Nagurski's quintet a week from Saturday evening.

ST. PAUL Y TEAM IN UPHILL BATTLE GOING TO TOURNEY

St. Paul, March 19.—(U.P.)—The St. Paul Y. M. C. A. basketball team wanted to play in the national championship tournament which starts next Thursday at Buffalo, N. Y., but funds were lacking.

Members of the team canvassed the city for financial backing. A business man donated the use of a limousine. A garage gave two new tires and a filling station contributed a change of oil and grease.

Each player made a contribution toward expenses for the long trip. Then they washed and polished the limousine, brushed up the upholstery, filled the tires with air and parked it in front of the Y. M. C. A. building.

Five minutes later it was stolen.

NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S STATUS IN DOUBT

BECAME INVOLVED IN DIFFERENCE OF OPINION WITH THE NORTH CENTRAL ASS'N.

INVESTIGATORS ATTEMPTED TO MAKE SURVEY OF ATHLETICS AT THAT SCHOOL

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Chicago, March 19.—Northwestern University's status in the North Central Association of Colleges and secondary schools remained in doubt today as the association's board of review on athletics recommended Northwestern's case be returned to it with power to act thereon.

Northwestern became involved in a difference of opinion with the North Central when investigators attempted to make a survey of athletics at that school in February.

President Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern was asked to appear before representatives of the North Central today to explain the stand his school assumed in asking the investigators to suspend their activities at the Evanston institution.

If Northwestern should decide to withhold the incompleted report of the North Central investigators, that school would automatically be left off the association's list of approved institutions.

Members of the North Central have a rule which specifies that athletic contests will not be scheduled with schools which have been dropped from the accredited list because of failure to abide by its athletic standards.

Northwestern, according to President H. M. Gage of Coe College, has made an "unfortunate interpretation of the purpose of the investigators," and that the North Central's purpose was to co-operate with the Big Ten. He said that the North Central was not interested in individual cases, but in bringing about a set of standards for all schools.

Rumors of irregularities at Northwestern have been freely circulated since that school went through an undefeated season in football in the Big Ten and won its first basketball championship in history this season.

Four other members of the Big Ten, Minnesota, Chicago, Illinios and Ohio State, were investigated by the North Central at the same time as Northwestern and there were no frictions at those institutions.

Hoover Party Heading Toward Porto Rico

Washington, March 19.—(U.P.)—The navy department was advised by radio today that the battleship Arizona, carrying President Hoover and party, was 75 miles east of Norfolk at noon today, heading toward the western tip of Porto Rico.

The weather was reported good, with a smooth sea and somewhat hazy atmospheric conditions.

JEAN BOROTRA, ROCKAFELLOW IN SEMI-FINALS

FRENCHMAN HAS BOUNDED TRADITIONAL WAY OVER 4 RIVALS

SHIELDS MEETS LANDRY OF FRANCE, BELL PLAYS AYDELOTTE

By L. S. CAMERON
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York, March 19.—An international final match loomed today as competition in United States indoor tennis championships progressed.

The finalist was to be determined in the upper half of the bracket while two semi-finalists were to be proven in the lower half.

Jean Borotra of France and Perrine G. Rockafellow of New York meet in a semi-final match today. Borotra has bounded in his traditional way over four rivals while the advance of the New Yorker was marked by an upset victory. Rockafellow yesterday won from Clifford Sutter, New Orleans. The defeat was surprising because Sutter was the No. 2 seeded player.

In the lower half, Frank Xavier Shields of New York meets Pierre Landry of France while Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, plays William Aydelotte, also of New York.

Shields, Landry and Bell climbed to the semi-finals without unorthodox results while Aydelotte reached the next to the last hurdle through an unlooked for victory. He eliminated Christian Boussus of France in a quarter-final match yesterday.

Semi-finals matches scheduled in the doubles were:

Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans and Pierre Landry of France vs. William Aydelotte and Perrine Rockafellow of New York.

Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, and Meritt Cutler of New York vs. Jean Borotra and Christian Boussus of France.

Progress in the doubles was accomplished without untoward incident except for the fact that Borotra and Boussus had a real tussle with Donald Cram and Kimbark Peterson, of Nashville in yesterday's quarter-final. The French won out finally at 9-7, 6-3.

Aydelotte and Rockafellow, a veteran combination, was favored in the top bracket, with the other match seen as a toss-up.

ALL STARS, MOOSE WIN AT TEN PINS

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, beautiful and romantic, heeds her mother's warning against marrying a poor man and gives up Mat Kelly. She accepts the attentions of Jack Beamer who plans to divorce his rich wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a handsome ranger. At first she is happy in his mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a long trip, she flees home. Without informing her family of her marriage, she returns to the old social life. Beamer is as ardent as ever, but Nancy refuses his embraces. Roger's letters arouse Mrs. Hollenbeck's suspicions. Nancy begs Roger to come to her. Though longing for her, he refuses to see her in a sneaking fashion.

CHAPTER XXXII.

DAYS passed. The mails were so slow. Up Gale's Flat way the roads were rivers of mud. The wind whistled round the cabin; the rain lashed the windows, pattered against the door.

By the light of the kitchen lamp Roger read Nancy's last letter. He had already read it four times, jogging home in the dusk.

The Letter.

Nancy's tears and the raindrops had almost reduced it to a pulp. It was such a short letter, he already knew it by heart.

"Roger, Darling:

"We can't go on this way. I am almost crazy. I've told you so many times. Why do you ask me again? I can't go back just now, and I can't tell the family yet. I'll explain when I see you. You must come. I must talk to you. You could come for a weekend, and I would find some way to get away. If you love me you won't let that job of yours stand in the way. Roger, I'm begging you! I'm putting all my pride in my pocket. I can't get along without you. I love you so. I'll look for you Saturday. I'll meet you in the lobby of the St. Francis at half-past twelve.

"Your Nancy."

Aunt Ellie wanted the girls for Saturday afternoon. She was entertaining the Ladies' Auxiliary, and they were to help serve the refreshments. There would be crab salad and hot biscuits and rich chocolate cake and tall silver pots of chocolate and coffee. Quite expensive enough without paying for an extra maid for the afternoon. Beside, she rather enjoyed presenting pretty Nancy, the tall, ladylike Louise . . . "Ladies, my nieces."

"I'm sorry, but I can't go," Nancy said, decisively.

"But Nancy, you know how Aunt Ellie feels——"

"I can't help it. I can't go."

"I don't know what I can say to Ellie," mama moaned. "I told her I didn't know what you'd be doing, but I was sure——"

"Well, I'm sorry, but you'll just have to tell her . . . was that the telephone?"

"I didn't hear anything. I declare I don't know what's got into you lately, Nancy. If you're not hearing the telephone it's the door bell. Are you expecting something?" Mama's wizened little face was all wrinkles. There had been trouble enough with Nancy's clattering up and down stairs to answer imaginary telephone calls, and dreamily waiting on the front porch for the postman, leaving the door open, a draught through the whole house, without this complication over Aunt Ellie.

"No, I'm not expecting anything." But even mama could see that her whole being was tuned to the telephone, waiting for its to ring.

"Then you're making mama very nervous for nothing!"

A loud, rattling sigh from Nancy.

"I'm sure, dear, that any of your little plans should wait on Aunt Ellie. Remember, she has been very kind, and she is in a position to be much kinder. One never knows——"

Nancy burst into loud, hiccoughing sobs. "Mama, if you don't stop I'll go crazy! I'm so nervous now I don't know what I'm doing! I can't go, I tell you—I can't—I can't, and that's all there is to it!"

So Louise had to go without her.

* * *

Nancy got to the hotel more than twenty minutes early. It was the first time she had ever had to wait for anyone. Usually it was she who was late.

Of course he wasn't there yet. He couldn't possibly be there. But she walked slowly through the lobby just to make sure, scanning each face eagerly, looking with a plunging heart for a blonde head, a thin, brown face . . . suppose she didn't know him . . . suppose he wore civies and she didn't recognize him without the uniform . . . what a crazy idea!

She went into the dressing room to make sure she looked all right. The beige homespun was really Spring, but the day was quite warm; it wasn't bad for Autumn. The new brown hat and brown suede pumps helped, so did mama's fur and Louise's birthday bag. She had charged the hat and shoes to pap. It seemed too bad to do it, with all his bills, but she couldn't quite bring herself to spend the crisp twenties Roger had sent, "in case you need anything." He was her husband, of course, but still . . .

A little more lipstick might help. She put it on, and then rubbed it off again. Her hair looked terrible. The one day I want to look nice, she mourned, and decided to wipe all the makeup off and begin all over again. She did, but no sooner had she touched the powder puff than she thought of Roger all alone, walking up and down in the lobby, looking for her, worrying, perhaps. She stuffed everything back into her purse, pulled her hat over her eyes and fairly flew to the door.

He wasn't there. Maybe he was not coming. Because her knees felt weak she sank into the nearest chair. I mustn't give way to my nerves like this, she thought angrily. I'm getting to be as bad as mama. But I'll be all right when he comes. . .oh, Roger, dear, come soon!

Disappointment.

"I beg your pardon, have you the time?" she asked the nice looking woman in the next chair.

"Oh, THANK you!" she cried when the woman looked at her wrist watch and said "Twelve twenty-five."

Five minutes more. Five centuries. She got up again and walked around. Anything was better than sitting still.

At the flower stand near the elevators there was a case full of violets. Early this year. She stood looking at them hungrily.

"Violets?" the clerk asked, following her hypnotized gaze. He slid back the glass, stirred the purple bunches about.

Their fragrance came wafting up to her. The delicate scent of the blossoms, the good woodsy smell of the leaves.

"I'd like a bunch of the small double ones," she whispered, pointing so that he knew what she meant.

He pinned them on for her with a flourish, and she paid him mechanically. She no longer saw him or his flower stand. She was back in the woods with Roger. He was holding her in his strong brown arms, the falls were pounding, the spray rose in a white plume, splintered into diamonds, fell back to the wet green carpet of the grass, the little violets at their feet . . .

"Your change, madame," the salesman said distinctly.

"Oh! . . . thank you." She took it blushing, walked uncertainly back to the lobby.

He wasn't there yet. He's delayed, she told herself, trying to push back the panic; it's perfectly natural. Nothing to be upset about.

All about her people were rising, greeting friends. People who had come long after she did were gone. It must be conspicuous, her waiting so long. Her cheeks began to burn.

Perhaps he had called the house after she left. It was so funny his not answering her letter at all. Maybe he hadn't gotten it in time . . . but that was impossible. She had plenty of time.

"Has anyone called me since I left?" she asked mama from a convenient telephone booth.

"Why, no!" mama's voice came crackling over the wire. "Has anything happened? Didn't you meet your friends? Where are you phoning from Nancy. Hello, hello . . . Nancy!"

Nancy had hung up.

In a small voice she asked at the desk, "Is Mr. Roger Decatur registered here?"

She knew he wouldn't be. She went back to her chair. She no longer expected him. She just waited because she didn't know what else to do. She could not bear to admit that he wasn't coming.

Tea with Beamer.

She was still sitting there at four o'clock when a group of prosperous looking, youngish men came in. Pink faced, large of neck. Jovial. Inclined to plumpness. Clubmen of the sort who have stopped the more violent sports and have not yet started counting calories.

One, the youngest and slimmest of the group, saw her where she sat alone in her chair. With a casual apology he left the others and came over to her.

"Hello, Nancy! Waiting for me?"

She jumped and colored violently. "Why Jack Beamer! What are you doing here?"

He grinned, and, still smiling, looked her over from head to toe. No need to speak his admiration. It shone from his shrewd gray eyes, glowed in every line of his handsome ruddy face.

"I forgot why I came, but I know why I'm here now!"

She started to rise and her knees knocked together. She wanted to take Jack's big, warm hand, to lay her aching head on his broad shoulder and sob out all the hurt and disappointment. He seemed so sympathetic, so large and alive and helpful.

"Why, baby, what's the matter?"

She looked at him with bewildered eyes, soft and gentle as a doe's. "I don't know . . . I think I'm hungry. I haven't had any lunch. Buy me some tea?"

She tried to smile, but her lip twitched. She bit it to keep it from trembling.

"You're darn right I'll buy you some tea. Champagne. Whiskey. Cognac. Anything!" Jack Beamer smiled down into Nancy's woe-begone face. "Come on, baby!"

He led the way toward the dining room, big, blustering, good-natured Jack. Feeling like a lost kitten whom someone had rescued, Nancy followed.

"Mr. Beamer!" The head waiter bowed. "And how are you today? Ah . . . let me see!" He considered the choicest table. "Henri, show Mr. Beamer . . ."

Henri was more than unctuous. He adjusted Nancy's chair; he wanted to take her coat; he rubbed his hands.

Another waiter brought ice and butter with the air of one who treads on holy ground.

"Orange pekoe and toasted muffins as usual, sir? And marmalade? And the little sandwiches? Petits fours? Yes, sir . . . yes, sir."

Early Mail Rates

In the times of Benjamin Franklin letters were charged for by the sheet instead of by weight, and also for the distance carried. Ten cents was charged for one sheet, 20 cents for two sheets, and so on, and for every 50 miles another full fee was added. Envelopes were not used in those days, the letter simply being folded up and sealed.

"FOREST LOVE" by HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Nancy Hollenbeck, young, beautiful and romantic, heeds her mother's warning against marrying a poor man and gives up Mat Kelly. She accepts the attentions of Jack Beamer who plans to divorce his rich wife and marry Nancy. On a mountain trip, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a handsome ranger. At first she is happy in his mountain cabin, but when he leaves on a long trip, she flees from her home. Without informing her family of her marriage, she returns to the old social life. Beamer is as ardent as ever, but Nancy refuses his embraces. Roger's letters arouse Mrs. Hollenbeck's suspicions. Nancy begs Roger to write to her. Though longing for her, he refuses to see her in a speaking fashion.

CHAPTER XXXII.

DAYS passed. The mails were so slow. Up Gale's Flat way the roads were rivers of mud. The wind whistled round the cabin; the rain lashed the windows, pattered against the door.

By the light of the kitchen lamp Roger read Nancy's last letter. He had already read it four times, jogging home in the dusk.

The Letter.

Nancy's tears and the raindrops had almost reduced it to a pulp. It was such a short letter, he already knew it by heart.

"Roger, Darling:

"We can't go on this way. I am almost crazy. I've told you so many times. Why do you ask me again? I can't go back just now, and I can't tell the family yet. I'll explain when I see you. You must come. I must talk to you. You could come for a weekend, and I would find some way to get away. If you love me you won't let that job of yours stand in the way. Roger, I'm begging you! I'm putting all my pride in my pocket. I can't get along without you. I love you so. I'll look for you Saturday. I'll meet you in the lobby of the St. Francis at half-past twelve.

"Your Nancy."

Aunt Ellie wanted the girls for Saturday afternoon. She was entertaining the Ladies' Auxiliary, and they were to help serve the refreshments. There would be crab salad and hot biscuits and rich chocolate cake and tall silver pots of chocolate and coffee. Quite expensive enough without paying for an extra maid for the afternoon. Beside, she rather enjoyed presenting pretty Nancy, the tall, ladylike Louise . . . "Ladies, my nieces."

"I'm sorry, but I can't go," Nancy said, decisively.

"But Nancy, you know how Aunt Ellie feels——"

"I can't help it. I can't go."

"I don't know what I can say to Ellie," mama moaned. "I told her I didn't know what you'd be doing, but I was sure——"

"Well, I'm sorry, but you'll just have to tell her . . . was that the telephone?"

"I didn't hear anything. I declare I don't know what's got into you lately, Nancy. If you're not hearing the telephone it's the door bell. Are you expecting something?" Mama's wizened little face was all wrinkles. There had been trouble enough with Nancy's clattering up and down stairs to answer imaginary telephone calls, and dreamily waiting on the front porch for the postman, leaving the door open, a draught through the whole house, without this complication over Aunt Ellie.

"No, I'm not expecting anything." But even mama could see that her whole being was tuned to the telephone, waiting for its to ring.

"Then you're making mama very nervous for nothing!"

A loud, rattling sigh from Nancy.

"I'm sure, dear, that any of your little plans should wait on Aunt Ellie. Remember, she has been very kind, and she is in a position to be much kinder. One never knows——"

Nancy burst into loud, hiccoughing sobs. "Mama, if you don't stop I'll go crazy! I'm so nervous now I don't know what I'm doing! I can't go, I tell you—I can't—I can't, and that's all there is to it!"

So Louise had to go without her.

* * *

Nancy got to the hotel more than twenty minutes early. It was the first time she had ever had to wait for anyone. Usually it was she who was late.

Of course he wasn't there yet. He couldn't possibly be there. But she walked slowly through the lobby just to make sure, scanning each face eagerly, looking with a plunging heart for a blonde head, a thin, brown face . . . suppose she didn't know him . . . suppose he wore civies and she didn't recognize him without the uniform . . . what a crazy idea!

She went into the dressing room to make sure she looked all right. The beige homespun was really Spring, but the day was quite warm; it wasn't bad for Autumn. The new brown hat and brown suede pumps helped, so did mama's fur and Louise's birthday bag. She had charged the hat and shoes to pap. It seemed too bad to do it, with all his bills, but she couldn't quite bring herself to spend the crisp twenties Roger had sent, "in case you need anything." He was her husband, of course, but still . . .

A little more lipstick might help. She put it on, and then rubbed it off again. Her hair looked terrible. The one day I want to look nice, she mourned, and decided to wipe all the makeup off and begin all over again. She did, but no sooner had she touched the powder puff than she thought of Roger all alone, walking up and down in the lobby, looking for her, worrying, perhaps. She stuffed everything back into her purse, pulled her hat over her eyes and fairly flew to the door.

He wasn't there. Maybe he was not coming. Because her knees felt weak she sank into the nearest chair. I mustn't give way to my nerves like this, she thought angrily. I'm getting to be as bad as mama. But I'll be all right when he comes. . . oh, Roger, dear, come soon!

Disappointment.

"I beg your pardon, have you the time?" she asked the nice looking woman in the next chair.

"Oh, THANK you!" she cried when the woman looked at her wrist watch and said "Twelve twenty-five."

Five minutes more. Five centuries. She got up again and walked around. Anything was better than sitting still.

At the flower stand near the elevators there was a case full of violets. Early this year. She stood looking at them hungrily.

"Violets?" the clerk asked, following her hypnotized gaze. He slid back the glass, stirred the purple bunches about.

Their fragrance came wafting up to her. The delicate scent of the blossoms, the good woodsy smell of the leaves.

"I'd like a bunch of the small double ones," she whispered, pointing so that he knew what she meant.

He pinned them on for her with a flourish, and she paid him mechanically. She no longer saw him or his flower stand. She was back in the woods with Roger. He was holding her in his strong brown arms, the falls were pounding, the spray rose in a white plume, splintered into diamonds, fell back to the wet green carpet of the grass, the little violets at their feet . . .

"Your change, madame," the salesman said distinctly.

"Oh! . . . thank you." She took it blushing, walked uncertainly back to the lobby.

He wasn't there yet. He's delayed, she told herself, trying to push back the panic; it's perfectly natural. Nothing to be upset about.

All about her people were rising greeting friends. People who had come long after she did were gone. It must be conspicuous, her waiting so long. Her cheeks began to burn.

Perhaps he had called the house after she left. It was so funny his not answering her letter at all. Maybe he hadn't gotten it in time . . . but that was impossible. She had plenty of time.

"Has anyone called me since I left?" she asked mama from a convenient telephone booth.

"Why, no!" mama's voice came crackling over the wire. "Has anything happened? Didn't you meet your friends? Where are you phoning from Nancy. Hello, hello . . . Nancy!"

Nancy had hung up.

In a small voice she asked at the desk, "Is Mr. Roger Decatur registered here?"

She knew he wouldn't be. She went back to her chair. She no longer expected him. She just waited because she didn't know what else to do. She could not bear to admit that he wasn't coming.

Tea with Beamer.

She was still sitting there at four o'clock when a group of prosperous looking, youngish men came in. Pink faced, large of neck. Jovial. Inclined to plumpness. Clubmen of the sort who have stopped the more violent sports and have not yet started counting calories.

One, the youngest and slimmest of the group, saw her where she sat alone in her chair. With a casual apology he left the others and came over to her.

"Hello, Nancy! Waiting for me?"

She jumped and colored violently. "Why Jack Beamer! What are you doing here?"

He grinned, and, still smiling, looked her over from head to toe. No need to speak his admiration. It shone from his shrewd gray eyes, glowed in every line of his handsome ruddy face.

"I forgot why I came, but I know why I'm here now!"

She started to rise and her knees knocked together. She wanted to take Jack's big, warm hand, to lay her aching head on his broad shoulder and sob out all the hurt and disappointment. He seemed so sympathetic, so large and alive and helpful.

"Why, baby, what's the matter?"

She looked at him with bewildered eyes, soft and gentle as a doe's. "I don't know . . . I think I'm hungry. I haven't had any lunch. Buy me some tea?"

She tried to smile, but her lip twitched. She bit it to keep it from trembling.

"You're darn right I'll buy you some tea. Champagne. Whiskey. Cognac. Anything!" Jack Beamer smiled down into Nancy's woe-begone face. "Come on, baby!"

He led the way toward the dining room, big, blustering, good-natured Jack. Feeling like a lost kitten whom someone had rescued, Nancy followed.

"Mr. Beamer!" The head waiter bowed. "And how are you today? Ah . . . let me see!" He considered the choicest table. "Henri, show Mr. Beamer . . ."

Henri was more than unctuous. He adjusted Nancy's chair; he wanted to take her coat; he rubbed his hands.

Another waiter brought ice and butter with the air of one who treads on holy ground.

"Orange pekoe and toasted muffins as usual, sir? And marmalade? And the little sandwiches? Petits fours? Yes, sir . . . yes, sir."

Early Mail Rates

In the times of Benjamin Franklin letters were charged for by the sheet instead of by weight, and also for the distance carried. Ten cents was charged for one sheet, 20 cents for two sheets, and so on, and for every 50 miles another full fee was added. Envelopes were not used in those days, the letter simply being folded up and sealed.

THE HEALTH OF YOUR FAMILY

Every Diet Needs Roughage to Prevent Constipation

The health of every one in the family circle largely depends upon the mother. For it is she who can safeguard health by the wise selection of the proper foods.

Too often, in our modern diets, there is too little attention paid to one of the prime essentials of a correct diet . . . roughage. Without roughage in the daily diet, constipation inevitably results and is responsible for more illness than any other thing.

Many of the most ordinary ills are due to constipation. Headaches, backaches, lack of pep, premature aging and even serious disease often result from it.

But there is an easy way to correct constipation. All that is necessary is to include sufficient roughage in your planning of the meals. One of the best ways to do this is to eat bran regularly. Bran absorbs water in your body and increases its bulk, gently distending the intestines—exercising them, and promoting normal, natural movements.

Doctors advise its use because it is not habit-forming and is a safe, natural way to relieve and prevent constipation due to lack of bulk in the diet.

You'll find that the family will enjoy eating bran as a delightful cereal with milk or cream—or in many delicious cooked foods.

The fluffy muffins you make—hot cakes—waffles and other breads—all lack roughage. They are fine to taste—but should have more bulk to be as healthful as possible.

That is where you will find the offer featured on this page with the measuring cup a great aid to health. Just add a cupful of bran to most recipes—and you add deliciousness and health together. Bran muffins—bran bread—bran hot cakes and waffles are wonderfully good. Try them—recipes for some of the most popular are on the Kellogg ALL-BRAN package.

If you will write to the Home Economics Department, Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.—they will be glad to send you others.

Now is a good time to start. Take advantage of the Special Kellogg Offer featured by your grocer today. And also get the other ingredients you need to make bran muffins, cakes or bread.

COUNCIL TO LEARN T. H. ROUTE FIRST

Authentic and Final Selection of Highway No. 2 Route to be Told City Body

While the North Side route appears to be favored by engineers of the Minnesota Highway Department as the most feasible for Trunk Highway No. 2, the ultimate selection will be announced by highway representatives at a meeting with the city council it was learned here today.

Before the state department will take action, the city council will be informed of the route.

It was anticipated here today that construction of the new highway would start this summer.

A request will be made that ornamental lights of the type now in use on city streets be placed on the new concrete bridge to be constructed over the Mississippi river for highway No. 2.

It was assumed here that the present brdige would be turned over to the county for maintenance and would be used to light traffic.

The proposed route along the side of the Koering ravine may be changed in the final plans.

MRS. COENEN DIES THIS AFTERNOON

Wife of Charles Coenen Stricken at Home, 1021 Ivy Street; 79 Years Old

Mrs. Charles Coenen, 1021 Ivy street, passed away at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon after an illness of two and a half months at the age of 79 years. Death was caused from heart trouble.

Mrs. Coenen (Lena Kipply) was born in Syracuse, New York January 29, 1852. She was married to Charles Coenen at Rockford, Wis.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband and three sons, Frank of Minneapolis, Ed of Seattle, Wash., and Herman of Brainerd, and three daughters, Mrs. Charles Falkenreck, 1019 Ivy street, Mrs. Otto Johnson of Minot, N. D., and Mrs. C. H. Cloid of Bismarck, N. D.

Funeral arrangements are pending, and will be announced later.

CREGER'S NAME UP FOR MAYOR

City Alderman's Petition Out, Signed by Many Shopmen; Opposes Falconer

"If sufficient voters wish me to run for mayor I will consent."

With these words H. W. Creger, city alderman, entered the race today for mayor to oppose Archie Falconer, West Brainerd merchant, who has already thrown his hat into the ring.

Mr. Creger still has two more years on the city council before he must seek reelection. His petition is being circulated today. On it are the names of many shopmen of the Northern Pacific railway.

BARBERS TO STUDY SCIENTIFIC WORK

Betterment of Their Trade Will be Keynote of Classes for Six Months

Planning with the theory in mind that each profession must have specialists, barbers of Brainerd, Little Falls, Pine River, Staples and Aitkin, will unite for a six months study course to be conducted by George W. Anctil, Duluth.

The barbers will study to improve their professions and will employ science in their work of facial and scalp treatments.

Twenty barbers in the group heard initial plans at a meeting in Brainerd last evening at Stallman's barber shop.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger Guests of Honor at Party Last Evening

HOWARD EBINGER'S ENTERTAIN

Party Also for Youngest Grandchild, Age One, of Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger

Mr and Mrs. David Ebinger celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last evening, March 18, at a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ebinger, 802 Fifth avenue Northeast. The party was also for their son, Gene Howard, who celebrated his first birthday, and is the youngest grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebinger have been residents of Brainerd since 1878, both having lived in the city a short time before they were married. Mr. Ebinger was in the brick business here for over 30 years, and now has a small grocery and confectionery store at 707 South Broadway.

The home had been beautifully decorated in the gold color for the occasion. The festivities of the evening opened with a dinner at 6 o'clock, at which covers were laid for 26. The decorations on the table were in gold with red carnations.

Fifty dollars in gold was presented to Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger.

The out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Ebinger and family of Bemidji (son), Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Jaeger and daughter Marlys Jean of Minneapolis (daughter) and Mr. and Mrs. Ray F. Putney(daughter) of Minneapolis. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ebinger and family (son), Mr. and Mrs. William Ebinger and family (son), Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ebinger and family (son), Mrs. Minnie Ebinger and family, George Ebinger, Sr., a brother of David Ebinger.

They were also remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ebinger and family (son) of Sacramento, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Munn of St. Paul (daughter) and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Halladay and family, (daughter) of Livingston, Mont., who could not be present.

Mr. Ebinger, who will be 72 years of age in June, and Mrs. Ebinger who is 68, are both in excellent health.

LET BIDS FOR 4 HOTEL COTTAGES

Will be Constructed Immediately at Brainerd Pine Beach Hotel Grounds

CONTRACTS ARE LET

Arthur L. Roberts to Give Personal Attention This Summer; Hotel Opens May 29

Directors of the Brainerd Pine Beach Hotel Corporation met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday afternoon and opened bids for the construction of four cottages at the resort this spring.

F. J. Britton and Son, Brainerd were low bidders and were awarded the general contract.

Gust Johnson was awarded the plumbing contract.

Work will start immediately and the cottages will be ready for use in connection with the hotel in May. Each cottage will cost approximately $2,000 and will be modern throughout. They are four of ten new cottages planned.

The Brainerd Pine Beach Hotel will open on Friday, May 29, it was announced here today. Arthur L. Roberts, of Winona, who is vacationing in Florida at the present, will give his personal attention to the management of the hotel this summer.

CROSBY GIRL WINS STATE FAIR TRIP

Gale Prushek Selected by 4-H Club Work and University Farm Rating

Gale Prushek of Crosby, who has been president and a member of the 4-H club for four years at Perry Lake, has been selected as one of the 16 girls from the 4-H club in the School of Agriculture, University Farm, to wait on tables at the Farm Boys' Camp at the State Fair.

This is an honor and a privilege to be selected as one of the group, as these girls are recommended for their good 4-H club work, and work as a student at the University Farm.

She will receive all her expenses, as well as transportation to and from the State Fair.

Gale Prushek has been an outstanding club member in Crow Wing county for three years, winning two trips to the State Fair and with her dairy calf, and winning first prize with her two year old Guernsey heifer in 1921 at the State Fair.

Old Tragedy Revealed

Workmen stumbled on a forgotten tragedy of two centuries ago, while building a mountain road over the Saleve, in eastern France. Buried at a depth of 11 inches, their picks brought to a light a woman's skeleton with a dagger sticking between the third and fourth ribs on the left side, where the heart was. Beside it were Swiss coins dated 1722.

COUNCIL TO LEARN T. H. ROUTE FIRST

Authentic and Final Selection of Highway No. 2 Route to be Told City Body

While the North Side route appears to be favored by engineers of the Minnesota Highway Department as the most feasible for Trunk Highway No. 2, the ultimate selection will be announced by highway representatives at a meeting with the city council it, was learned here today.

Before the state department will take action, the city council will be informed of the route.

It was anticipated here today that construction of the new highway would start this summer.

A request will be made that ornamental lights of the type now in use on city streets be placed on the new concrete bridge to be constructed over the Mississippi river for highway No. 2.

It was assumed here that the present brdige would be turned over to the county for maintenance and would be used to light traffic.

The proposed route along the side of the Koering ravine may be changed in the final plans.

MRS. COENEN DIES THIS AFTERNOON

Wife of Charles Coenen Stricken at Home, 1021 Ivy Street; 79 Years Old

Mrs. Charles Coenen, 1021 Ivy street, passed away at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon after an illness of two and a half months at the age of 79 years. Death was caused from heart trouble.

Mrs. Coenen (Lena Kipply) was born in Syracuse, New York January 29, 1852. She was married to Charles Coenen at Rockford, Wis.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband and three sons, Frank of Minneapolis, Ed of Seattle, Wash., and Herman of Brainerd, and three daughters, Mrs. Charles Falkenreck, 1019 Ivy street, Mrs. Otto Johnson of Minot, N. D., and Mrs. C. H. Cloid of Bismarck, N. D.

Funeral arrangements are pending, and will be announced later.

CREGER'S NAME UP FOR MAYOR

City Alderman's Petition Out, Signed by Many Shopmen; Opposes Falconer

"If sufficient voters wish me to run for mayor I will consent."

With these words H. W. Creger, city alderman, entered the race today for mayor to oppose Archie Falconer, West Brainerd merchant, who has already thrown his hat into the ring.

Mr. Creger still has two more years on the city council before he must seek reelection. His petition is being circulated today. On it are the names of many shopmen of the Northern Pacific railway.

BARBERS TO STUDY SCIENTIFIC WORK

Betterment of Their Trade Will be Keynote of Classes for Six Months

Planning with the theory in mind that each profession must have specialists, barbers of Brainerd, Little Falls, Pine River, Staples and Aitkin, will unite for a six months study course to be conducted by George W. Anctil, Duluth.

The barbers will study to improve their professions and will employ science in their work of facial and scalp treatments.

Twenty barbers in the group heard initial plans at a meeting in Brainerd last evening at Stallman's barber shop.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger Guests of Honor at Party Last Evening

HOWARD EBINGER'S ENTERTAIN

Party Also for Youngest Grandchild, Age One, of Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger

Mr and Mrs. David Ebinger celebrated their golden wedding anniversary last evening, March 18, at a party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ebinger, 802 Fifth avenue Northeast. The party was also for their son, Gene Howard, who celebrated his first birthday, and is the youngest grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebinger have been residents of Brainerd since 1878, both having lived in the city a short time before they were married. Mr. Ebinger was in the brick business here for over 30 years, and now has a small grocery and confectionery store at 707 South Broadway.

The home had been beautifully decorated in the gold color for the occasion. The festivities of the evening opened with a dinner at 6 o'clock, at which covers were laid for 26. The decorations on the table were in gold with red carnations.

Fifty dollars in gold was presented to Mr. and Mrs. David Ebinger.

The out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. George Ebinger and family of Bemidji (son), Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Jaeger and daughter Marlys Jean of Minneapolis (daughter) and Mr. and Mrs. Ray F. Putney(daughter) of Minneapolis. Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ebinger and family (son), Mr. and Mrs. William Ebinger and family (son), Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Ebinger and family (son), Mrs. Minnie Ebinger and family, George Ebinger, Sr., a brother of David Ebinger.

They were also remembered by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ebinger and family (son) of Sacramento, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Munn of St. Paul (daughter) and Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Halladay and family, (daughter) of Livingston, Mont., who could not be present.

Mr. Ebinger, who will be 72 years of age in June, and Mrs. Ebinger who is 68, are both in excellent health.

Ambassador's Privilege

Among the curious privileges that an ambassador has is that he is the only person about a court who has the right to turn his back on the sovereign at the end of an interview.

LET BIDS FOR 4 HOTEL COTTAGES

Will be Constructed Immediately at Brainerd Pine Beach Hotel Grounds

CONTRACTS ARE LET

Arthur L. Roberts to Give Personal Attention This Summer; Hotel Opens May 29

Directors of the Brainerd Pine Beach Hotel Corporation met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms Wednesday afternoon and opened bids for the construction of four cottages at the resort this spring.

F. J. Britton and Son, Brainerd were low bidders and were awarded the general contract.

Gust Johnson was awarded the plumbing contract.

Work will start immediately and the cottages will be ready for use in connection with the hotel in May. Each cottage will cost approximately $2,000 and will be modern throughout. They are four of ten new cottages planned.

The Brainerd Pine Beach Hotel will open on Friday, May 29, it was announced here today. Arthur L. Roberts, of Winona, who is vacationing in Florida at the present, will give his personal attention to the management of the hotel this summer.

CROSBY GIRL WINS STATE FAIR TRIP

Gale Prushek Selected by 4-H Club Work and University Farm Rating

Gale Prushek of Crosby, who has been president and a member of the 4-H club for four years at Perry Lake, has been selected as one of the 16 girls from the 4-H club in the School of Agriculture, University Farm, to wait on tables at the Farm Boys' Camp at the State Fair.

This is an honor and a privilege to be selected as one of the group, as these girls are recommended for their good 4-H club work, and work as a student at the University Farm.

She will receive all her expenses, as well as transportation to and from the State Fair.

Gale Prushek has been an outstanding club member in Crow Wing county for three years, winning two trips to the State Fair and with her dairy calf, and winning first prize with her two year old Guernsey heifer in 1921 at the State Fair.

LABOR OFFICIAL IS KILLED BY 3 MEN

TRIO ARMED WITH SAWED-OFF SHOTGUNS SHOOTS DOWN WM. J. ROONEY, CHICAGO

Chicago, March 19.—(U.P.)—William J. Rooney, business agent for the sheet metal workers' union and a prominent labor official, was killed today by three men armed with sawed-off shotguns.

Rooney had just left his wife and children at his home in Austin, a west side suburb, when the men fired three volleys and fled in an automobile.

Police and union officials were unable to find a motive for the slaying.

Young Athlete Charged with Extorting $25,000

St. Paul, Minn., March 19.—(U.P.)—Twin City police were informed today that Gordon Bjornson, 23-year-old athlete of Wahpeton, N. D., who is charged with kidnaping O. A. Leach, a banker, was seen in Minneapolis.

Burns detective agents said they were close on Bjornson's trail and his arrest was expected momentarily. A description of the youth was broadcast over police radio systems.

Bjornson, who is charged with extorting $25,000 from the Wahpeton banker, was said to be travelling under the name of George Johnson. Detectives have trailed him for hundreds of miles through North Dakota and Minnesota in the last few weeks.

STONE DENOUNCES EXPORT DEBENTURE

Washington, March 19.—(U.P.)—James C. Stone, who has succeeded Alexander Legge as chairman of the Federal Farm board, will receive condolences or congratulations on his new job with the smiling acknowledgement that he doesn't know which it should be.

Stone made h's debut as chairman with a firm denunciation of the export debenture.

He is ready for a battle with those who contend farm board efforts to stabilize wheat profits must entail a loss. He says government purchases of wheat last November prevented a "debacle."

"If our critics are fair and honest," he told the United Press, "they will give us credit for that."

Ends Piles Quick

No Salves—No Cutting

Your itching, bleeding, protruding piles will go when you actually remove the cause—bad blood circulation in the weak, flabby parts—and not one minute before. Salves or cutting can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. HEM-ROID, prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts. HEM-ROID has such a wonderful record right in this city, that Johnson's Pharmacy, H. P. Dunn say one bottle of HEM-ROID Tablets must end your Pile agony or money back. advt.
